(Special to the Daily American)

WHEELUS AFB, Libya, Nov. 18 — When U.S. Air Force families get together, it can be almost anywhere that planes touch down along the world's skyways.

Lt. Col. John L. Dier, of Laguna Beach, Calif., who has done no little measure of traveling in 33 years of military service, has new evidence of this. When he arrived at Wheelus Air Base to become chief of the 772nd Air Base Wing, he found his son an F-102 flight chief already here on a rotational tour from the UK.

The son is T/Sgt. Donald W. Dier, also of Laguna Beach, who is assigned to the 77th Tactical Fighter Squadron, of Wethersfield, England. He is at the USAF Weapons Center for a month of training operations with elements of his squadron, working out of the 20th Tactical Wing area.

Before the reunion at Wheelus, father and son had not seen each other since April 1959. That was at Keesler AFB, Miss., where Sgt. Dier visited his father while on leave from his own previous duty as a B-47 flight chief with SAC at March AFB, Calif.

Other Gaps

Otherwise, the Dier family has other gaps to span in catch-as-catch-can reunions. Chaplain Dier's daughter, Mrs. Carol Ann Giesen, is the wife of an Air Force captain who is now stationed with the ARDC region office in Chicago, and another son, former S/Sgt. John L. Dier, Jr., lives with his family at La Puente, Calif. Chaplain Dier's wife, Ellen K. Dier, is now visiting with the daughter in Chicago before coming to Wheelus.

"That's Air Force life," commented Chaplain Dier, with agreement from his son, "but we like it." Moreover, they have 2 1/2 years of active duty between them. The chaplain has 16 1/2 years, and can add nearly 17 years of reserve time to round out his 33 years of duty.

Both have had previous transient experience at Wheelus.

In 1945, Chaplain Dier touched down in an ATC aircraft and stayed an hour while en route home from nearly two years of service in India during World War II.

Sgt. Dier, on the other hand, made his first rotational tour from Wethersfield in April of this year. He is scheduled to make other training visits on the basis of one each six months while stationed with the UK-based 77th TFS, commanded by Maj. Felix A. "Doc" Blanchard, of West Point football fame.

This means that in the future, Sgt. Dier will have members of his family at both ends of the shuttle, since his wife, Barbara, and two

Morelli Named To International Court

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — Law Prof. Gaetano Morelli of Italy and former President José Luis Bustamante y Rivero of Peru have just been elected to the International Court of Justice in The Hague. Bustamante received 53 votes — one more than the required majority — on the fourth ballot in the General Assembly. But his election was not confirmed until the 11-nation Security Council which votes separately for the Court candidates gave him ten votes on the second ballot. Morelli, who was chosen by the Council earlier, got 56 votes in the Assembly on the fifth ballot.

Other Vacancies

Four other vacancies on the 12-man court were filled Wednesday. Philip C. Jessup, law professor and former U.S. diplomat, Chief Justice Katano Tanaka of the Japanese Supreme Court and Vladimir S. Oretsky, Soviet professor-jurist, were elected to nine year terms.

Sir Gerald Fitz-Maurice, a British lawyer who helped draft the statute of the Court in 1945, was named to serve till Feb. 15, 1964, in the unexpired term of judge Sir Hersch Lauterpacht of Britain who died last May.

A judge in the International Court is elected for a nine year term. The post carries salary and allowances amounting to $20,000 a year.

Morelli, 60, had served since 1956 on the law faculty of the University of Rome.

He served temporarily on the World Court in 1954 when it ruled on an international monetary gold case. He has also been a member of the permanent Court of Arbitration since 1956.

A noted lecturer on international law, Morelli has also served on the faculties of the University of Urbino, Modena University and the University of Padua.

OBITUARIES

Lord Stansgate, 83, Dies Suddenly In London Hospital

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Lord Stansgate, 83, Labour Party peer and distinguished parliamentary statesman for over half a century, died suddenly in hospital last night.

Stansgate was said to be under treatment for bronchitis after falling ill Wednesday during a debate in the House of Lords. Earlier last night he was reported progressing satisfactorily.

As William Wedgwood Benn, he entered the House of Commons in 1906, a member of the Liberal Party. He became a party whip under Prime Minister Herbert Asquith in the days before World War I.

Colleagues fondly called him "Little Ben," after Westminster's famous clock "Big Ben" under which he worked most of his life.

Stansgate resigned from the Liberal Party and became a Socialist in 1927. He was made a viscount in 1942 and moved to the House of Lords.

He served as air minister in 1945-46.

Stansgate was regarded as an intellectual and a fighter. He made a name for himself as a daring airman in both world wars and was the first Englishman to be parachuted behind Austrian lines in 1917.

Scantly Clad Tourists Return -- By Popular Demand Of Voters

TORRIBENACO, Italy, Nov. 21 (AP)—The mayor who tried to keep scantily clad foreign tourists out of this little resort of the shore of Lake Garda has been voted out. The new mayor says he will reopen the lakeside tourist campsites closed by police last year.

Tourists' clothing was the main issue in the recent local election in this community of 4,000 near Verona.

It all began last summer, when Mayor Gino Barbieri ordered police to close down several private camping places near Torribenaco. The reason, he said, was that the tourists from Britain, Germany and Scandinavia who stayed at the campsites dressed in an indecent manner.

The opposition group claimed the village had suffered a heavy financial loss from the departure of the campers, who had simply moved to nearby and less puritanical resorts.

The anti-puritans won the town election by an overwhelming majority. The new independent mayor, Igino Bonetti, immediately promised he would re-open the tent cities as soon as spring comes.

Cranberries Make Comeback -- To Holiday Tables In U.S.

HANSON, Mass., Nov. 21 (UPI)—The cranberry is making the comeback of the year.

Blighted only a year ago by a doubtful weed killer, the bitter red berry is a record crop and indications are that the public has regained complete faith in the tart dressing for Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates the 1960 crop at 1,344,000 barrels, up more than 100,000 from last year and nearly 350,000 barrels over the 1949-1958 average.

Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., located in the heart of the southeastern Massachusetts cranberry bogs and principal distributor of the crop, said sales appear to be almost back where they were Nov. 9, 1959, when the federal Food & Drug Administration (FDA) impounded the crop.

The FDA report said a number of shipments had been tainted by a weed killer which had been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

A Few Cleared

Shipments were recalled, tests conducted and a few cleared for consumption at holiday tables.

But the industry suffered a severe blow and recently the Agriculture Department offered to reimburse the growers for their losses, up to $10 million.

The industry is back in high gear, according to Ambrose E. Stevens, executive vice president of Ocean Spray, but the bumper crop is presenting its problems.

"We are greatly concerned about our ability to market the 1960 crop," Stevens said. "Due to lack of funds when sales were cut off last year, we cut down on advertising."

"But starting the last week of October, we started to spend three times as much per week on advertising as in 1958 or 1959," he said.

LEND ME YOUR EARS:

Soldiers To Entertain 60 Orphans

A PARTY FOR 60 ORPHANS from Lucca, with the troops of Headquarters Company at Camp Darby as hosts, will bring to a climax on Jan. 7 the biggest Italo-American Yule season anybody in the U.S. Army's 8th Logistical Command can remember.

All told, some 700 to 800 orphans from the Tuscan area — from Pisa to Firenze — were guests at parties sponsored by troop units and clubs in the command during the holiday season. In most instances, gifts included not only confections and toys, but also more substantial presents in the form of clothing and shoes. Virtually every lira of the costs involved were contributed by members of the command.

Highlight of the command's holiday program was the giant Italo-American Christmas program in Tirrenia which drew a bi-national, obviously delighted audience of some 2,500 persons. Co-sponsors, the Pisa tourist office and the command, hailed the program as "genuine proof" of the high regard the Army command and the community hold for one another.

The last party of the Yuletide season — on Jan. 7 — will see orphans from Lucca's Orfanelli di San Pancrazio as guests for a big dinner in the troop dining hall, with gifts and movies to follow, and a soldier-donated 100,000-lire cash present to go to the orphanage to purchase comfort items for the children.

Happy Birthday . . .

Banker (wife of the Baltimore Sun correspondent) — to FAO Director-General B. R. Sen — and to sculptor Augusto Perez — and tomorrow (Monday) to Italian actress Giovanna Ralli — to Vivio Gini, another Italian actress — to Mrs. Corrado Pallenberg — to Italian tenor Tito Schipa — to film director Luigi Zampa — to publisher Giulio Einaudi — to Italian artist Renato Guttuso — to Maj. Bruce R. Clark and Maj. Richard C. Wahl (both of MAAG's Air Section) — and to Capt. Weston C. Sorenson (Executive Officer, Hqs. Co., 1st U.S. Army Missile Command, Vietnam).

Statue Replaced

Father Arthur Lattanzi, OSM, pastor of the Franciscan Father Shrine Church of St. Anthony in New York, today accepted the offer of Plato Skouras, producer of "Francis of Assisi," to replace the Christ Child figure stolen from the church.

The figure was taken from St. Anthony's early last week. It had been placed in a crèche in the church.

Skouras, on hearing of the theft, immediately cabled Father Lattanzi an offer to replace the Christ Child statue with one obtained in Rome. Father Lattanzi accepted the offer "gratefully." Following is his cable, received by Skouras:

"Deeply appreciate and gratefully accept your generous offer to replace stolen Christ Child. Explains letter follows. May St. Francis guide your work in his behalf."

Skouras said in Rome yesterday that he would set out on a search for the most beautiful Christ Child statue he could find just as soon as Father Lattanzi's letter arrives.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP) — The centennial of Italian independence will be celebrated here with a concert in Carnegie Hall Jan. 13, starring a number of Italian and American artists.

The singers will include Toni Arden, Cathy Carr, Alan Hale and Julius La Rosa. They will present a selection of American and Italian songs and hymns.

In addition, Sasha, the European violinist, will play and Michael Angelo will sing. Accompanying the troupe will be the orchestra of Jack Adato. Pasquale Cajano will be the master of ceremonies in this program presented by impresario Erberto Landi.

Landi said he will go to Italy in February to attend the San Remo song festival in quest of new talent to present to United States audiences. In past years, he has brought many top entertainers here on singing engagements.

RIDDLE OF THE "MISSING" KNITWEAR

Why is it that you can buy perfectly beautiful Italian wool knitwear in America — then when you come to Italy you can't find any? Or you can find it — but it doesn't fit the American figure, and chances are, the styles aren't the kind you are accustomed to either? The reason is, the Italian knitwear which you buy in America is made in Italy especially for export consumption — according to American sizes, and in styles most wearable by Americans.

ALBERTO IMPORTS, a branch of the ALBERT ALFUS firm in New York, famous for their leather coats, has a showroom in Rome at 16 PIAZZA IN LUCINA where you can buy Italian knitwear as you like it — American sizes and models, with Italian workmanship at wholesale prices.

The three-piece suits are especially attractive — a pull-over and shirt topped by a cardigan or jacket — and their one-piece knit dresses are very light and easy-to-wear. The size range runs from 8 to 18.

ALBERTO IMPORTS' line is sold in over 600 of the best shops across the U.S. Hours: 9 a.m.-1 p.m., 3-7 p.m. Tel. 440.382
