LEND ME YOUR EARS:

International Ballet Starts Venice Season

THE WINTER SEASON at the historic La Fenice Theater in Venice will begin — not with an opera — but with the International Ballet of the Marquis di Cuevas, starting Dec. 14 and repeating on the next two nights. The company will dance Tschaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty," always a favorite during the Christmas holidays. The first opera of the season will be Verdi's "Aida," on Dec. 26, 29 and 31, and Jan. 3. The season continues with Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," Jan. 4, 7 and 9; Verdi's "Macbeth," Jan. 12, 14 and 18; Ferrari's "I Quattro Rusteghi," Jan. 23, 25 and 28; Mozart's "The Magic Flute," Feb. 1, 4 and 6; Renzo Rossellini's "Uno Sguardo Dal Ponte," an opera based on Arthur Miller's play "A View from the Bridge," Feb. 10, 14 and 18, and Rossini's "William Tell," Feb. 20, 23 and 25. The winter season ends with the Hungarian Ballet Company of Budapest, Feb. 27, 28 and March 1.

Happy Birthday...

... today to Mrs Eduardo Brazao, wife of Portuguese ambassador to Italy ... to Turin artist Piero Garino ... to Mrs James G. Murray Jr., wife of steel executive ... to Mrs David H. Schindell, wife of U.S. Embassy attaché ... and to M/Sgt. Douglas B. Baldwin, Air Force section of MAAG.

Round-Up

Take a good look at your 500-lire coins. Italian police authorities have discovered that about one-seventh of them are counterfeit (they turned up 212 phonies out of 1,515 they examined carefully). Be particularly alert, they advise, when getting change in bars, theaters, restaurants and buses ... the junior class at Marymount International School will give a performance of James M. Barrie's comedy "Quality Street" at 8 p.m. Monday in the school auditorium, 180 Via Lauchli (Cassia Antica). Proceeds will go toward the school fund drive ... Rosario and his Spanish company of folk dancers and the American star Jeanne Laurence opened last night at the Open Gate Night Club and at the Rupe Tarpea of Via Veneto ... Frederick H. Mayne Jr., son of Mr and Mrs Frederick H. Mayne of Florence, has enrolled in Denison University's Air Force ROTC detachment. Mayne is a freshman at the Ohio college ... Luigi de Giovanni, Italian Consul General at Zagreb, has presented Italian decorations to three Yugoslavs for developing cultural relations between the two countries. Decorated were Josep Jernej, chief of the chair for Italian language at Zagreb University; Edo Dermat, lecturer in Italian at Zagreb's philosophic faculty, and Ivo Jurisa, actor of the Zagreb Theater and translator into Serbo-Croat of Italian drama ... screenwriter Michael Sloan Sr. is in Rome from New York and Bettina Shaw-Lawrence asks him to telephone her at 472.662 before he leaves town ... Italian painter Pietro Annigoni flew yesterday to the U.S. where he will paint a portrait of President Kennedy. Annigoni has also painted Queen Elizabeth's portrait.

Art World

An exhibition of wood sculpture by Pietro Consagra opens at 6 p.m. today at the Odyssia Gallery, 16 Via Ludovisi, Rome. The artist, born in Sicily in 1920, was active in a group (named "Forma") that showed the first non-figurative art in post-World War II, Rome. His book "The Necessity of Sculpture" came out in 1952 in response to a statement by Arturo Martini, a major Italian prewar sculptor, that sculpture is dead. He has picked up a number of international prizes, including the grand prize for sculture at the Venice Biennale in 1960. His works can be found in the U.S. at the Museum of Modern Art and Guggenheim in New York, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, and Minneapolis' Institute of Fine Arts.

Party Line

South African Airways tossed a party Thursday night at the Hotel Flora. Host and hostess were R. G. Brett, manager of South African Airways for Italy, and Mrs Brett. Among the many guests were South African Ambassador and Mrs F. C. Erasmus, John Riachi of the Lebanese Embassy and his brother Romeo Riachi, actor Guy Madison, Singapore beauty Aileen Khoo, actor Todd Windsor, Italian actress Eleonora Vargas, producer Victor Orsatti, South African Airways general manager for Europe and Mrs E. G. Ball from Frankfort, Siri, Sam'l Steinman, Carlo Guggenheim, Betts Whelan, actor-director Mel Wells and Mrs Wells, administrative officer R. J. Clay Stewart of FOA, and the South African Embassy's J. B. Mills, H. Franck, L. F. Joubert and E. J. J. Olivier.

PIETRO CONSAGRA — A show of the wood sculpture of Pietro Consagra, winner of the 1960 Venice Biennale grand prize for sculpture, opens at 6 p.m. today at the Odyssia Gallery, 16 Via Ludovisi. His work can be found in New York's Museum of Modern Art, and in the Modern Art museums of Rome and Paris.

UN Accused Of Shelling Katanga Hospital

on the hospital during mortaring which went on at intervals throughout the night. They claimed it was United Nations fire.

Abdullah Succar, third in rank in the UN civilian administration here, admitted that United Nations forces had mortared in direction of the hospital, but that they had aimed at a military camp — Camp Tshombé — about 800 yards from the hospital.

Newsmen saw wards wrecked by mortar shells and craters in the grounds. According to the shape of the craters and the blasts, the mortars had been fired from the direction of the Swedish and Irish camps in the Ruashi suburb east of Elisabethville.

During the mortaring many walking cases among patients fled the hospital. Others — it had not yet been established how many — were moved from the old section of the hospital which suffered most of the mortaring to a new block several hundred yards away.

While the mortaring was going on several parts of the African quarter to the south of the hospital were hit by shells. Four Africans — including two young girls — were killed, according to official Katanga sources. Some of shells hit the Roman Catholic Church which towers above the African houses in the middle of the African quarter.

The shelling began about 7 p.m. yesterday and finally ended 5 a.m. today. Georges Oliver, official Swiss delegate of the International Red Cross Committee in Elisabethville, telephoned the UN headquarters at 8 p.m. informing them that shells were hitting the hospital. The mortaring continued, however, and at 4 a.m. today Oliver telephoned Succar and asked him to have the UN forces stop firing. Succar told newsmen, "I received a call from a doctor at that time. I phoned the military commander and told him to avoid hitting the hospital. I can merely pass on information to the military commander and give him communications. I cannot give him orders. The UN forces were aiming at Camp Tshombé."

U.S. RESUMES AIRLIFT

LEOPOLDVILLE, Dec. 8 (AP) — American Air Force transports resumed their airlift of men and materiel to the United Nations fighting force in Katanga today. Two hundred Irish reinforcements were flown from Leopoldville starting at dawn, and Malayan armored cars were flown in this afternoon.

A 24-hour interruption in the airlift yesterday apparently prevented UN troops in Elisabethville from making further advances on strategic targets in the Katanga capital, lacking the necessary troops and equipment to push ahead.

The decision to resume the American military flights was made at the highest level in Washington late yesterday, reversing a low-level grounding order following a minor shooting attack on one of the American Globemaster transports.

GOP QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP) — The Republican Party's national chairman demanded the Kennedy administration give "an immediate and full explanation of the deployment of United States cargo planes in the strife-torn Congo."

In a statement issued through Republican national headquarters last night, Rep. William E. Miller of New York urged also that Congress "launch a searching investigation to determine all the facts behind the obviously deplorable situation which has been climaxed by an attack on one of our planes."

Britain To Give Bombs To UN

in this argument the British government also faced becoming involved in an argument within its own Commonwealth. India, for example, is a staunch supporter of the UN policy in Katanga and the Congo as a whole.

But Premier Roy Welensky's Central African Federation, which borders on Katanga, has been critical of the UN military effort.

The issue also has cropped up in British domestic politics. The opposition Labour Party on the whole supports the UN military action along much the same line of thinking as that of the United States administration.

A wide section of Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative Party, however, suspects the UN is overstepping its authority in Katanga.

The request for bombs was received from acting UN Secretary General U Thant some time ago.

TSHOMBE HITS U.S.

ELISABETHVILLE, Dec. 8 (AP) — President Moise Tshombé today made a new violent attack on the United States, accusing it of trying to "assassinate Katanga like Soviet Russia assassinated Hungary."

Tshombé, talking with newsmen after his return here last night, said responsibility for the United Nations action in Katanga at the behest of the United States.

"The Americans," he said, "went to the Congo their dollars, their planes and their diplomats. Everything except their soldiers, because the American man is too corrupted and decadent to execute these dangerous tasks while he can use the skin and blood of the men of Mr. Nehru, who has more than his needs."

East Germany

the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

The East German Interior Ministry said military cars will be passed through automatically, but civilians will have to show identification. This has been the practice since the Communists closed the border Aug. 13.

The measure is being taken, it said, "in the interest of orderly border traffic."

Parts of two American battle groups were rolling along the disputed Helmstedt-West Berlin autobahn in opposite directions this morning. Each passed a Soviet checkpoint without particular difficulty.

Company B, 1st Battle Group, 19th Infantry, was on its way to isolated West Berlin. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel III, commander of the 24th Division, went up to Helmstedt to see it off.

Men of the 19th are relieving the 1st Battle Group, 18th Infantry. The first company of the 19th arrived in Berlin yesterday. The first elements of the 18th left Berlin without difficulty this morning.

ADENAUER LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (UPI) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in a letter to President Kennedy, has promised to give French President Charles de Gaulle full explanations of the U.S. desire to resume Berlin talks with Russia.

U.S. Student

fic research."

He said the American, under the guise of gathering material for his doctor's degree, interviewed East German economic experts and gathered espionage information on East Germany's foreign trade for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Pryor, a graduate of Berlin College, was attending lectures at West Berlin's Free University while working on his doctor's degree at Yale. He disappeared in East Berlin where he went to get information on the East German economy for his thesis, friends said.

Steinbeck: Musings Of A Harmonica Virtuoso

Rome they headed south, not sure where they would stop.

"My wife and I want a rest and a view, while the boys fight off incipient delinquency with culture," Steinbeck said. "I am counting on the tutor to take care of that."

With so much music, there was little chance to discuss literature, but I did manage to ask Steinbeck what was his favorite book.

"Easy to answer," he said. "It's a book called 'A No. 1, or The Curse of a Tramp's Life,' and it holds the place of honor in my library. I stole the book, if I must tell the truth. Years and years ago in a bookstore in Salinas, California. Some day I am going to return it. Wonderful book. A No. 1, which was a celebrated tramp's signature, spent nearly 300 pages trying to discourage boys from becoming tramps and having as much fun as he had. From the day I read it, the whistle of a train, the blast of a liner, or the reading of a timetable has made me want to be on the move."

From southern Italy the Steinbecks plan to go to Greece for a few months.

"Delphi is where we'll spend most of the time," Steinbeck said. "There's a wonderful little hotel overlooking an olive grove and the sea, and the porch is a wonderful place to sit. The boys can learn and see Italy and Greece, and when they have done that, they'll know pretty well about the backgrounds of their civilization."

Was he working on this trip?

"An old pro is always working," he said. "There isn't any end."

The feeling one has about the Steinbecks is family closeness. Every bit as close as the harmony they produce with harmonica and horn. The older boy, Tom, 17, is no musician. He wants to be a flier.

Perhaps, if he's fortunate, he will fly as high in the sky as his father has in the world of letters.

And always come down to earth as lightly and gently.

ate Finance Committee, which would handle any House-passed bill to accomplish this result, said he thinks the issue may be one of the most far-reaching in his 29 years in Congress.

Kennedy's No. 1 domestic objective is to win approval of a medical care program for the elderly, financed through Social Security taxes.

In a budget message scheduled for Jan. 18, Kennedy is expected to propose spending more than $92 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Balancing of this would be dependent on increased revenues and congressional action to boost postal rates.

Because spending has now reached high levels, Kennedy has asked for action to increase the $298 billion debt limit.

In the foreign field, there may be far-reaching repercussions to the President's expected request for broad authority to negotiate tariff reductions in dealing with the European Common Market. This program could affect almost every economic facet of American life.

There is trouble ahead for Kennedy's expected request for authority to purchase $100 million in United Nations bonds. The UN has been under bipartisan fire for its actions in the Congo.

There will be the usual efforts to cut foreign aid despite last year's authorization for a long-range program.

Plane

a Tehran-Istanbul flight was forced down by Soviet fighters but New York construction engineer Charles Wiemer said emphatically:

"We were never fired upon."

A South African Sabena pilot named Van Rooyen, traveling as a passenger, said:

"I was first troubled when I saw the Red stars on the planes. I was not frightened but I was a little concerned." Van Rooyen is a World War II veteran of the South African detachment of the Royal Air Force.

Mrs Van Rooyen said: "They were very nice, especially to the children. They brought me diapers and hot milk for them."

Mrs Maria Wiemer of New York said, "We were treated very nicely. We had a wonderful reception."

The plane landed at the military airfield near the oil city of Grozny in the North Caucasus Monday.

They said that questioning by local officials was limited to asking their names, nationality and destination. Their baggage was not inspected.

Gizenga

plied in a statement to the official Congolese news agency.

"It is hardly right to claim Gizenga's activities in Stanleyville are in accord with those of the government," the news agency said. "Gizenga was not entrusted with any mission in Stanleyville or any other part of the Congo.

"His trip to Stanleyville was authorized for a period of eight days, for the purpose of arranging his personal affairs."

Bid To Kill Mattei Fails

story by the Agenzia Diplomatica, a private news service, on how the sabotage was allegedly carried out.

Mattei's state oil company ENI officially announced Tuesday night that an "extraneous object" had been found in an engine of Mattei's small twin-jet plane which was to take him to Morocco Sunday. It said the object damaged the engine and could have caused an explosion.

ENI's communique, issued after the first sabotage reports appeared in the press, did not explicity mention foul play. But it said the case had been reported to police and an investigation was under way.

Several Italian newspapers speculated that the rightwing French Secret Army Organization (OAS) was involved.

The OAS last July announced that it had passed a "death sentence" on Mattei because he allegedly made a deal with the Algerian rebel government for control of the Sahara oil.

Mattei's visit to Morocco was canceled, officially because of an "indisposition" but reportedly on the insistence of the Carabinieri Secret Service. The ENI president had been scheduled to join Premier Amintore Fanfani and Foreign Minister Antonio Segni, currently visiting in Morocco, for the inauguration of ENI's new refinery in Mohammedia.

The Agenzia Diplomatica report said the sabotage was discovered Sunday during a test flight of Mattei's plane from Rome's Urbe Airport, a small field for private planes.

"During the test flight one of the engines stalled suddenly and the plane was miraculously able to perform an emergency landing on an airport near Rome," the dispatch said.

"A first check failed to show the cause of the failure, but later, when some parts of the engine were disassembled, a screwdriver, different from the type normally used for that kind of engine, was found in a vital part of the jet.

"According to technicians, it was by mere chance that the engine did not explode. The Carabinieri command, asked to investigate responsibilities, saw in the fact the elements of a clear act of sabotage."
