Erhard

might by a new philosophy based on traditionally Western human values, and so armed go over to the offensive against communism.

Erhard said his talks in Washington earlier this week with President Kennedy and other top officials have convinced him the administration was fully aware that it soon will have to make a "historic decision" of whether to associate the United States with the six Common Market nations.

He predicted that Britain will join the Common Market — "no other development is conceivable" — and asserted that despite current pessimism in the United States, the Common Market nations will successfully resolve their divergencies over a joint farming policy.

"Europe no longer is America's junior partner, but an equal partner. This, I believe, changes the trading pattern in the free world," he said. He dismissed the possibility of a new American economic isolationism as "wholly unrealistic."

He said Europe was determined to make concessions to permit a U.S. association with the Common Market.

Erhard said such an association would not mean for the U. S. to enter the Common Market in the foreseeable future.

"Have no fear," Erhard told the assembled industrialists and bankers. Whatever ill effects a liberalization of U. S. trade would have initially would be largely and rapidly balanced out by increased productivity and economic stability.

Shelter Building Called 'Senseless' By Scientist

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 14 (AP) —"We are on our way to doomsday," says a Nobel Prize-winning biologist. He called $700 million for fallout shelters "senseless." He urged the money be spent instead for an international institute for the study of peace.

Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, whose field is the science of life, said, "Bombs become cheaper by the day. Soon everybody will have them, big and small, be it China, Cuba, Albania, or anyone else . . . The statistical chances that somewhere someone will fire one, or one will go off by mistake, are gradually increasing to certainty."

Speaking at Harvard University last night, at the founding of a new chapter of the Society for Social Responsibility in Science, the Hungarian-born scientist said war cannot be abolished: "It can only be replaced by something better and more intelligent."

"We will throw away arms only when they have become superfluous, when minds have met," he said. And he pleaded for an "international institute for the study of peace, where we can get together in a neutral atmosphere with both friends and adversaries, where minds can meet . . .

"What would have to be done is to spread out with our opponents all the problems and together search for the best of solutions with a cool head and a neutral mind, as we do in science, where even our adversaries are our allies in the search for truth."

"I am . . . disturbed by the fact that there is an enormous invested interest in armaments and none in peace," Szent-Gyorgyi said.

"That it (our government) has unconsciously realized that there is no safety in bombs is witnessed by the jittery way in which it tries to dive underground," he declared.

An atomic war would forever damage the genetic material which carries the future of the human race; even prolonged testing would do so, he said.

by his doctor, William Douglas, and advised of the postponement.

Lt. Col. John H. Powers, information officer, said Glenn accepted the nerve-fraying news calmly and ate what was to have been his pre-launch breakfast.

The decision to postpone the flight was made by Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operations director, after a two-hour weather conference which began at midnight.

This conference drew on information gathered by wide-ranging weather planes and from ships stationed in the areas selected for a landing by Glenn, depending on whether he made one, two or three trips around the globe.

By the time the flight finally was called off, several thousand spectators from nearly every state in the Union had crowded into the wide sand beaches south of the launching area. They were spending the night in tents, trailers and sleeping bags.

When word of the postponement spread from campsite to campsite, they bundled themselves, kids and equipment back into cars and headed dejectedly for home. The result was a massive traffic jam.

7 Feared Drowned

VIGO, Spain, Feb. 14 (UPI) — Seven Spanish fishermen were reported missing and feared drowned today after a collision last night between two small fishing boats off the northwest coast of Spain near here.

Declaring anew his readiness to sign an effective nuclear test ban agreement with inspection, the President said Communist China must be included in any comprehensive arms agreement.

In a wide ranging discussion of foreign policy question, the President also made these points:

● Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan was correct in stating there will be no nuclear testing on Christmas Island before the opening of the Geneva disarmament conference March 14. "By the end of the month, we will have concluded our analysis of our relative positions and we will be in a positions and we will be in a position to make a decision" on nuclear testing, he said.

● Vietnam — U.S. involvement is limited to providing military training and economic aid to the Royal government and its forces, Kennedy said.

● Kashmir — Kennedy said the United States would like to help India and Pakistan resolve their Kashmir dispute, but the method suggested—sending President Eugene Black of the World Bank as mediator—has not met favor with the Indian government.

● Russian visit — The President was asked whether Attorney General Robert Kennedy is going to visit Russia, as some rumors still have him planning to do. No, the President replied.

● Sa'ud — Asked whether anything discussed with King Sa'ud of Saudi Arabia had to do with renewal of U.S. bases at Dhahran, Kennedy said this was not an issue now and was not discussed.

● Punta Del Este — Kennedy disagreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller the Punta Del Este conference was a diplomatic failure for the U.S. Most important, he said, was the general opposition to the expansion of communism in this hemisphere. He announced the decision of the Organization of American States to exclude Cuba from the organization and said "it indicates the unanimity of the hemisphere."

● Berlin — He said the crisis continues with the Soviet Union in regard to Berlin. Until there is an easing of tension or an easing of the crisis in Berlin there will continue to be need for U.S. military reservists called up to active duty.

● Laos — He said the ceasefire has become "increasingly frayed" and "every day that goes by increases the dangers."

Co-Pilot On Cuban Airliner Requests Asylum In Canada

GANDER, Newfoundland, Feb. 14 (UPI) — A Cuban flier asked for political asylum in Canada today after being turned down last night in Ireland.

Immigration Department officials said the co-pilot of a Cuban airliner left the plane when it landed here early today and asked for political asylum. He was the 10th Cuban to jump the Cubana Airlines Prague-Havana flight here in the past year.

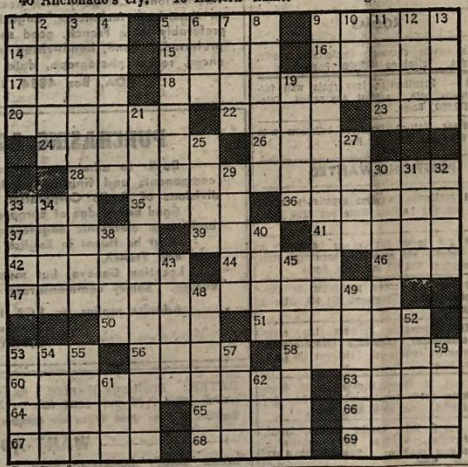

The co-pilot was identified by Irish authorities as George Daural. Canadian authorities refused to identify him by name, but admitted the plane's co-pilot had asked for asylum.

Immigration officials refused to give any details on the incident, referring all inquiries to Ottawa.

Irish authorities turned down Daural's bid last night, saying they did not believe his story.

Officials in Shannon refused to say what explanation Daural offered for his attempt to remain in Ireland.
