PAPER SAYS MINDSZENTY WON'T COME TO ROME Not Even If They Elect Me Pope

The rightwing Rome newspaper Il Tempo reported Saturday that Hungary's Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty said to have declared in the American Legation at Budapest Friday morning: "I shall not go to Rome even if they elect me Pope."

According to the paper, the 71-year-old Hungarian Catholic priest was said to have added, "I shall not go to Rome unless the Hungarian authorities accept my conditions for the freedom of the Hungarian Church, of the prime minister with to remain the prime minister."

Cardinal Mindszenty has lived as a refugee in the American Legation since the 1956 uprising.

There has been speculation here whether he would come to Rome to take part in the conclave on June 19 which will elect the new pope.

Il Tempo said that according to press from Budapest his main pre-occupation is that the Communists may use his particular position for propaganda purposes while the Papal See is vacant, or in case of his election as successor to Pope John.

which he considers extremely unlikely.

The primate demands above all absolute guarantees for his return and stay in Hungary, at least until he himself decides to give up his post as primate.

The Hungarian government evidently will never give him these guarantees because it only wants to get rid of a witness and martyr of religious persecution.

AT CASTEL GANDOLFO PALACE Chamberlain Takes Over

By HUGH MULLIGAN

CASTEL GANDOLFO June 8 (AP) — On this lovely hillside south of Rome, the cardinal chamberlain of the Roman Catholic Church took possession Friday of the papal summer palace.

Benedetto Cardinal Aloisio Masella's occupancy of Castel Gandolfo was part of the formalities in the interregnum between the death of Pope John XXIII and the coronation of a successor.

The ritual was a curious blend of the ancient and the modern.

A half hour before the cardinal arrived, four Swiss guards pulled up in a light blue Volkswagen station wagon, with their halberds sticking out the window. In another era, they might have arrived in bronze coaches pulled by richly caparisoned horses, but now they just stepped out into the castle courtyard, parked their medieval weapons on hooks high up on the wall and stood around waiting like everyone else.

Practically the whole town of Castel Gandolfo turned out to view the ancient ceremony, leaning over balconies and peering out of windows in the square.

In the excitement of so rare an occasion, the mustachioed old guard charged with dropping the chain in front of the palace gate inadvertently locked himself out. He had to pound on the big iron door with his fist until a Vatican functionary let him in.

British Labour Leaders Offer Nikita A Preview

LONDON, June 8 (AP)—Labour leader Harold Wilson flew to Moscow today to tell Nikita Khrushchev what to expect from Britain if the Labour Party wins the coming election. The man widely favored as Britain's next prime minister also intends exploring with Russian highups ways of ending the East-West arms race.

He has told newsmen he is particularly anxious to sound out the Russians about the chances of a limited ban on nuclear weapons testing — if an all-embracing ban proves impossible to negotiate. The limited ban would apply to atmospheric and underwater firings, leaving until later negotiations to halt underground nuclear blasts.

Wilson is accompanied by Patrick Gordon Walker, Labour's spokesman on foreign affairs. Their weeklong stay in Moscow will be followed by a visit to Warsaw on their way home. There they will meet with Poland's Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, who is expected once again to push his country's plan for a disengagement of East-West forces in middle Europe.

Tinosa Damaged By Other Sub

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., June 8 (Reuter) — The U.S. nuclear submarine Tinosa sustained "a small dent below the water line" in a collision with the Polaris submarine John Adams here Thursday, the U.S. Navy disclosed.

The Tinosa, sister ship of the Thresher submarine which sank with 129 aboard in April, bumped into the John Adams when a tow-line snapped. A piece of plate will have to be replaced.

Earlier, the Navy announced that builders' trials and the commissioning of the Tinosa had been suspended indefinitely, apparently pending the outcome of an inquiry into the Thresher's loss. The submarine was originally to be commissioned next week.

Both Wilson and Gordon Walker later met with President Kennedy and leading members of his administration in Washington and their mission to Moscow follows a pattern of preparing themselves for possible peace.

Wilson and Gordon Walker hope the talks with Khrushchev and others will allow them to:

- (1) Hear the Soviet government's appreciation of the current world situation;
- (2) Explain to Russian leaders of their own assessment of the East-West conflict and ways in which tensions may be eased.

The two men feel that Soviet policy right now is in a transitional stage — with crucial and possibly decisive conferences immediately ahead.

240 Tenth Mountain Division Vets To Revisit Italy In July

Two hundred and forty veterans of the U.S. 10th Mountain Division, who took part in the cracking of the German Gothic Line in Italy during World War II, will arrive in Rome July 4 for a reunion, it was announced here yesterday.

They will tour Italy and be joined in Florence by their war-time commander, Maj. Gen. George F. Hays, U.S.A. (Ret.) who will continue with them along the route they followed during the war.

The 10th, composed chiefly of skiers and mountain climbers, threw the Germans off of Monte Belvedere in Luzzano — a high mountain which was the key to the Po Valley in early January, 1945. Five Allied divisions had failed to take the mountain during the previous year.

The division was the first Allied unit to cross the Po River, on April 23, 1945, and it then liberated Mantova and Verona, and finally linked up with U.S. units coming down from the north in the Brenner Pass.

WHAT IS THE BEAUTY CLUB
The Beauty Club is a new idea, a scientific way of facing feminine esthetic problems. A woman's beauty, in fact, is not external but is closely tied to her health, the harmony of her physical condition, the balance of her temperament, the individualization of her type. Therefore, examinations and personal solutions are necessary to allow each woman to find those rules which will always serve her in realizing her beauty. To this end the Beauty Club brings together a wide variety of specialists and technicians: doctors, dietitians, masseuses, estheticians, makeup artists and hair dressers who collaborate in different sections: esthetic medicine, dietetics, physical therapy, hydrotherapy, hair dressing salon and facial treatments.

- A NEW FORMULA
The associative criteria which the Beauty Club offers as the base of its activities allows a woman daily care for her person at a reasonable expense and without risks. Becoming a member of the Beauty Club means:
- to have an answer to every problem, a personal orientation for every problem because the Beauty Club puts all its medical, dietetic and esthetic assistance at the disposal of its members, free of charge;
 - to use services worth up to 36,000 lire annually in any of the various sections, free of charge;
 - to be well groomed, combed and made up every day, with well-cared for hands, because the services of the hair dressing and makeup salon are paid for only once a week and are renewed free of charge every day;
 - to enjoy discounts on therapy, services and products of the Beauty Club;
 - to participate in a cultural program of feminine interest which the Beauty Club organizes for its members.

Norwegian Beauty Is Miss Europe

BEIRUT, Lebanon, June 8 (AP)—Norway's Mette Stenstad was elected "Miss Europe" early Saturday by an international jury.

The long limbed, green-eyed blonde won the crown in competition with beauty queens from 17 other countries in the annual judging here.

Named to her court in the following order were Switzerland's Dianne Tanner, Denmark's Aino Korva and Sweden's Grete Givberg.

A 20-year-old university student, the new Miss Europe was nearly overwhelmed with joy when her victory was announced.

"I was not expecting it," she said. "I am very glad. I'm just happy, happy. I'm very grateful."

"It's marvelous," she told newsmen.

As the selection boomed over the loudspeakers of the Casino du Liban outside Beirut, torches on each side of Miss Stenstad's throne lit up and fireworks shot up into the sky and arched over the Mediterranean Sea.

The five foot seven inch Norwegian beauty said her plans for the future. She said she is engaged to a fellow student at the University in Oslo but declared "It's too far in the future to talk of marriage."

Italy's strikingly proportioned Gianna Erbetta, a favorite with audiences here, applauded the choice of Miss Norway and said she didn't expect victory for herself.

"Italy never has good luck in beauty contests," said the 20-year-old actress with copper-colored hair. "It's very difficult for an Italian to win. I came just for the trip. It's always a Scandinavian who wins—but after all Miss Norway is a good choice."

Committee president Claude Berr of France told the newsmen Miss Norway won by a good margin and there was no disagreement among the jurors.

RIDDLE OF THE "MISSING" KNITWEAR

Why is it that you can buy perfectly beautiful Italian wool knitwear in America—then when you come to Italy you can't find any? Or you can find it—but it doesn't fit the American figure, and chances are, the styles aren't the kind you are accustomed to either. The reason is the Italian knitwear which you buy in America is made in Italy especially for export consumption—according to American sizes, (from 8 to 16), and in styles most wearable by Americans. There is a showroom in the center of Rome,

ALBERTO IMPORTS
16 PIAZZA IN LUCINA (First Floor)

a branch of the ALBERT ALFUS firm in New York, famous for their leather coats, where you can buy Italian knitwear as you like it—American sizes and models, with Italian workmanship, at wholesale prices.

The ALBERTO IMPORTS line is sold in over 2,000 of the best shops across the U.S. - Open continuously. Located five minutes from Piazza di Spagna down Via Frattina.

Clark Wins Belgian Road Race

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium, June 10 (AP) — Britain's Jimmy Clark, driving a Lotus-Climax of the official Lotus team, won the 32-lap, 280-mile Belgian Automobile Grand Prix on the Francorchamps Road Circuit yesterday.

Clark had led from the start, showing ahead from the third line when the starting flag fell. The race was held in a thunder, lightning and a downpour. Clark, the 27-year-old Scotsman, had been comparatively slow during the trials. But as the starting flag fell, he squeezed his car between the five lined up in front of him, and shot ahead. Climbing the Burnenville Hill in a leading position which he kept throughout the race, World Champion Graham Hill of Britain, in a BRM, came a close second but the expected duel never came.

Dan Gurney, U.S., in a Brabham, was third at one lap, and Richie Ginther, U.S., in a BRM, was fourth at one lap.

Pini was Sweden's Joachim Bonnier, in a Cooper-Climax, at two laps.

South was Dutchman Godin de Buifort in a Porsche at three laps. The fastest lap was covered by Clark in 3:58.1 at an average speed of 132.468 miles per hour.

Clark's overall time for the race was two hours, 27 minutes, 49.6 seconds.

Clark looked exhausted after the race. "It was a tough one," he was heard muttering.

Sanctus Tops French Derby

PARIS, June 10 (AP) — Sanctus, with Jockey M. Lazzarini up, yesterday won the 600,000-franc ($120,000) Prix du Jockey Club, the French Derby, at Chantilly Racetrack north of Paris.

Sanctus, owned by J. Ternynck, took the lead from Le Mesnil about 400 meters from the end of the 1 1/2 mile course, barely edging Nycross, ridden by Jockey H. Samani and owned by H. Aubert. Close behind in third place was Duc de Guérolle, and fourth was Frontin.

The victory over the field of 13 French three-year-olds also brought 81,000 francs ($16,200) in additional prizes. The track was firm under a warm sun.

President Antonio Segni and many other notables will be there to see the review, headed by the Carabinieri commander, Gen. Giovanni de Lorenzo. Angry Shirley MacLaine Bops Columnist

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 (AP) — Movie star Shirley MacLaine walked into the office of a film trade paper Monday and slugged columnist Mike Connolly.

Connolly said there were no words. Just punches. But Loretta Lee, the actress' secretary who was there, said there were words. "Why do you print untrue things about me?" Miss Lee quoted her boss. "As a woman, this is my only defense."

And then she hit him. Connolly said he did what any red-blooded gossip columnist would do.

"I ducked. She aimed for my head but hit my shoulder. I will never wash that shoulder again."

Miss Lee said it's true the first punch landed on Connolly's shoulder but the second "was a real good belt. She throws a mean punch."

"All Mike could say was 'Why, Shirley.' He was really stunned."

Then Shirley picked up her bag and walked off. As she left, Mike, still stunned, said: "Shirley, why are you being so mysterious?"

The fight was over Connolly's column in the Hollywood Reporter Monday, the lead item of which read: "Shirley MacLaine told Hal Wallis okay you win."

Miss MacLaine has been engaged in a bitter contract dispute with producer Wallis for some time. In fact, Miss Lee said, she was on the way to her lawyers for more discussions on the case when she angrily decided to detour to Connolly's office.

There was no direct word from Miss MacLaine.

Miss MacLaine's dispute with Wallis stemmed from her refusal to do the movie "Wives and Lovers."

When she declined the role, Connolly wrote: "It's a shame that Shirley MacLaine refuses to do 'Wives and Lovers,' throwing 400 people out of work at Christmastime."

The picture was made with Shelley Winters in the role.

Monday, as a parting remark, Shirley yelled at Connolly:

"Aren't you in the business of printing the truth?"

"Yes," answered Connolly.

"Well," stomped Shirley. "Print it."

Irish Racing Officials Call Probe Of Great Relko Mystery

DUBLIN, July 1 (AP) — The men who run Irish racing called an emergency meeting today to probe the great Relko mystery.

The big question: Was Relko, Europe's best three-year-old colt, nobbled to produce his sensational withdrawal just before the start of Saturday's $183,200 Irish Sweepstakes Derby?

Officials of the Curragh Racecourse at first put down Relko's sudden liveness to natural causes.

But newspaper commentators, pointing to similarities with nobblings on British tracks, were inclined to suspect the colt was got at to save the handbooks a massive beating.

French-owned Relko, at 11-8 on, was a virtual certainty to repeat his easy Epsom Derby success over the current crop of moderate three-year-olds. He looked fine in the paddock.

Canadian Rookie A Chicago Standout

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — Canada has contributed a few standouts to American big league baseball, but none has had such outstanding rookie seasons as Pete Ward, the Chicago White Sox third baseman.

Ward, born in Montreal 23 years ago, heads a list of seven native Canadians now playing in the majors. The others are pitchers Claude Raymond and Ron Piche of the Milwaukee Braves, Ron Taylor of the St. Louis Cardinals, Ted Bowfield of the Kansas City A's, Ken McKenzie of the New York Mets and first baseman Tim Larkness of the Mets.

By comparison, only two native Americans played in the National Hockey League — the pride and joy of Canada — last season. They were forwards Tommy Williams of the Boston Bruins, from Duluth, Minn., and Wayne Hicks, also of the Bruins.

Ward, who has hit safely in his last 18 games, is batting .303 with 12 doubles, 4 triples, 9 homers and 42 RBI. He was obtained from Baltimore last winter.

He is the son of Jimmy Ward, who played for the defunct Montreal Maroons in the 1930's. Jimmy Ward finished his playing career with Portland of the old Pacific Coast Hockey League now the Western League. Jimmy also coached Portland in 1948-49 and 1949-50 and Pete spent most of his adolescent years in the Oregon city where the family now resides.

Raymond, an effective reliever, has a 4-4 record and six saves for the Braves. He has pitched in 29 games, walked 16, struck out 31 and posted a 3.75 earned run average. He is from St. Jean, Que., near Montreal.

Piche, from Verdun, Que., also near Montreal, has yet to win his first game. He has lost one while appearing in 18 games, walking 13 and striking out 27.

Taylor has been a valuable pitcher for the second-place Cardinals. In 21 games, he has a 3-2 record with 11 walks and 37 strikeouts plus a 2.75 ERA. Ron is from Toronto, near Toronto, from Gore Bay, Ont., near Toronto, is 3-1 for the Mets with 8 walks and 28 strikeouts in 23 games.

Bowfield has won four games and lost five for Kansas City. He blanketed the hard-hitting Boston Red Sox on May 17 for his only shutout. Bowfield was born in Vernon, B.C., and lives in Rolling Hills, Calif.

Harkness is batting only .210 for the Mets with 3 doubles, 2 triples, 6 homers and 23 RBI. He was acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter. Harkness bats from Lachine, Que., which is also near Montreal, the hotbed of ice hockey.

SUNDAY'S STARS

(By the Associated Press)

PITCHING — Hector Skinner Brown, Houston Colts, shut out St. Louis' National League leading Cardinals on seven hits in a fine clutch performance, 1-0.

BATTING — Jim Hall, Minnesota Twins, collected three hits, including a three-run homer, in Minnesota's seventh straight victory, 6-2 over Washington Senators.

Meffert Method Could End Homer Guessing

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — In baseball, if you want to know how many second basemen have made three errors in the seventh inning of a night game on Thursday, you just look in the book.

If you want to know how far a home run flew, you guess.

Now comes the Meffert Method, to plug one of the last gaps in baseball's figure front.

Reports on the method come from Minnesota, where it was devised by Len Meffert, director of education at Minnesota State Prison and something of an expert on fences and walls.

"I got tired of the varying estimate of home runs," Meffert said. "I figured that with all the math we have in this country we should be able to pin-point the length of those homers."

Hence the method, now in use at Metropolitan Stadium where the Minnesota Twins play their home games.

Meffert started by measuring the distances from home plate to the fences. He found, incidentally that all were exactly as posted, except centerfield which was 414 feet instead of the listed 412.

He measured the angles of the fences from the foul lines, and the dimensions of the bleacher seats — two feet between rows. He picked out 17 spots, and figured the angles from the press box to those spots.

Then, with a little trigonometry, he came up with the figures. A ball hit into the second seat of the 15th row of Section 26, for example, goes exactly 391 feet.

The distance is from the plate to the spot where the ball landed — not where it would have landed if the bleachers hadn't been in the way. The figures are good up to 499 feet. Beyond that, you're back to guessing.

This plan offers, limitless possibilities, in addition to a handy way to figure Mickey Mantle's mighty blasts for the New York Yankees.

Carried to its illogical conclusion, each press box would be equipped with the dimensions of other fields. If a Boston Red Sox batter, for example, lofts a long fly to left in Cleveland, Boston fans would be able to proclaim — with evidence — that it would have been a homer at home.

The Yankees and the New York Mets, with the vastest center fields in baseball, could sneer at any homer hit to that area elsewhere.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the two Los Angeles teams could complain about any homers hit anywhere. The Cincinnati Reds could throw a few back.

And the San Francisco Giants could always maintain that no matter how far the ball went, it would never have gotten out of their park if the wind was blowing right.

De Gaulle-Kennedy Meeting?

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—Officials at the Elysée Palace today said there was nothing new to announce about the possibility of a meeting between President De Gaulle and President Kennedy.

These officials referred questions to a May 29 statement by Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte in which he said Gen. De Gaulle considers that he owes Mr. Kennedy a visit and counts on making one when the time comes.

A number of rumors have sprung up in Washington and Paris recently that plans for a meeting are being discussed.

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant on national security to President Kennedy, said Sunday that the President has felt for a long time it would be helpful to have a meeting with De Gaulle in the United States.

"It is his turn to come here," Bundy said, "and we hope that in due course he will."

Bundy was interviewed on a radio-television program "Issues and Answers." He was asked specifically "What are the possibilities of Gen. De Gaulle and the President getting together this year or early next, and if so what are they likely to accomplish?"

Bundy begged off any discussion of any meeting plans the President might have but did comment that Kennedy has felt it would be helpful to have a meeting with De Gaulle.

"There are differences," he said, obviously, in the way in which we construe some of the needs and purposes of the North Atlantic Alliance, and the way in which, as far as we can tell, the French government does.

"The very fact that there are such differences may make it useful to increase communication."

Think Racket Thugs Burned London Club

LONDON, July 15 (Reuters) — A gambling club fire in London's "Little Cyprus" in which two people died may have been caused by a gasoline bomb thrown by protection racket gangsters, police believe.

Irish-born Ann O'Halloran, 19, yesterday jumped to her death, her clothes ablaze from a five-story tenement in St. Pancras housing the gambling club. She landed on a spiked railing.

The owner, a 50-year-old Cypriot, died in his flat above the club. Five of 20 people who jumped from the blazing building were detained in hospital. Six others were treated for minor injuries.

The club's manager, Pieri Lukis, who hoped to marry Miss O'Halloran, said: "If I find out who did this, I'll kill him. I'll never forget."

The blaze was no accident, he added.

Detectives believe Miss O'Halloran was the victim of gang warfare.

The club, known as "Coco's" was owned by Kokos Erachelous, who has severe head burns. Thugs said to be demanding protection money were recently beaten up in the club and reportedly threatened reprisals.

The fire is thought to have started with an explosion in the basement.

U.S., Canada Nuclear Deal Reported Near

HYANNIS PORT, Mass., July 15 (AP)—The United States and Canada have worked out most of the details of a nuclear weapons deal which was a key item in talks here last May between President Kennedy and Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

The bilateral agreement, it was learned, will be announced—probably within a month—in an exchange of notes between the two governments.

An agreement in principle that Canada would accept American-made nuclear warheads for continental defense missiles was a major accomplishment of the talks, Pearson talks at this Cape Cod resort community two months ago.

It came on the heels of a Canadian election campaign in which a major issue was the refusal of Pearson's predecessor, John Diefenbaker, to accept the nuclear explosives despite an earlier agreement to do so. Pearson topped Diefenbaker in the balloting.

63 Guerrillas Die In Bloody Fight Near Saigon

SAIGON, July 15 (AP)—Government troops fought a bloody battle with Communist guerrillas 20 miles southwest of Saigon over the weekend. American sources confirm that 63 guerrillas were killed.

Government casualties were 26 killed, including two officers, and 51 wounded. Two Americans were wounded in the battle, which raged all day, military sources said.

Few details of the engagement, fought in Long An province, were available in Saigon Monday. But American sources said most government casualties came from mines lining a trench which guerrillas had defended for a time before running off into the jungle.

Troops had been airlifted into the area Saturday by American transport helicopters on a routine military operation. The units were from the capital area command which defends Saigon.

Court Grants Appeal To Miss Keeler's Assailant

LONDON, July 15 (Reuters) — A West-Indian jazz singer Aloysius Lucky Gordon was today granted leave to appeal against a three-year jail sentence for attacking London model Christine Keeler, central figure in Britain's sex scandal.

The Court of Criminal Appeal here also granted an unusual application for certain tape-recordings, allegedly made by Miss Keeler, to be delivered to the court registrar because they might have a bearing on the case.

Jack Kennedy Freed By Spanish Authorities

PAMPLONA, Spain, July 15 (AP) — John Kennedy was released from jail here today. This John Kennedy was Pvt. John L. Kennedy, an American soldier from Fort Worth, Texas, who came here from his post in Germany on leave for the annual Festival of the Bulls.

Officials said Kennedy became involved in a brawl and was jailed Friday after he allegedly struck a policeman. U.S. consular officials negotiated his release and he was turned loose today for return to Germany.
