Paris Paper Claims Govt 'Hiding Political Truth'

PARIS, March 13 (AP) — One of France's foremost political experts has accused the De Gaulle government of concealing the truth about Communist gains in the nation and the seriousness of conditions in war-torn Algeria.

Jacques Fauvet, in a Page One story in the authoritative paper Le Monde, yesterday bluntly charged the government with announcing phony figures to "prove" Communist losses in recent nationwide municipal elections. There were no such losses, says Fauvet, adding the Communists made substantial advances.

Unwilling

The writer implied the government was quite aware of the truth but unwilling to admit it, since it was an unpalatable truth.

"The most faithful friends of the government were the first to admit that results of the municipal elections gave a serious warning to the authorities," he wrote.

"After three days of reflection, however, the minister of the interior (Jean Berthoin) discovered that the Communist advance, after all, was a set-back."

A similar policy, he claims, has been adopted on Algeria.

"If for the last four years French opinion had had to rely solely on official informat on, it would not understand why fighting still has to go on in Algeria." Fauvet then had a go at the government's press policy.

Seized

Yesterday the liberal weekly Express was seized on orders of Premier Michel Debré because of an article on Algeria.

"This kind of thing," says Fauvet, "could only be justified if the government decided to proclaim a state of war."

Macmillan

Earlier, in Bonn, Chancellor Adenauer said that he and Macmillan "achieved complete unity" in their two days of talks here on Western Policy Toward Soviet Russia. Adenauer said the talks were "excellent for us and for Europe."

Bonn press chief Felix von Eckardt told a news conference that the two heads of government "were agreed on the procedures in the coming weeks." He added: "no differences exist."

British Foreign Office spokesman Peter Hope, who was at the conference, concurred with this statement.

The agreement followed a period of considerable German coolness and misgiving over Macmillan's visit to Moscow. Asked today about the Bonn government's attitude, von Eckardt said it had always regarded the Macmillan trip as useful, but now it regarded it as having been "extremely useful."

Both spokesmen emphasized that military thinning out did not mean "disengagement." That has become something of a dirty word in some Western circles, and is now regarded as a dead concept.

Snow-Bound Home Blaze Kills 7

EASTON, Maine, March 13 (AP) — Seven persons, including five children, perished today in a fire that destroyed their five-room cottage in snow-bound Easton, about 10 miles from the Canadian border.

The victims were John Hersey, 41, five of his six children, and Carl Lundy, 50, an overnight guest of the Herseys.

Snow drifts as much as four feet deep on the highways prevented help from reaching the scene in time.

Ironically, Hersey, a former professional boxer, was a firefighter at Loring Air Force Base, Limestone, Maine, 20 miles from his home.

Cyprus Rebel Col. George Grivas Claims Victory

ATHENS, March 23 (UPI)—Col. George Grivas, who led Greek Cypriot extremists through three years of bloody anti-British battling on Cyprus, claimed victory tonight.

The former Greek Army officer turned Eoka rebel leader said in a special newspaper interview published here that Greek Cypriots, granted independence, can now march to prosperity and progress.

Grivas' interview, his first since Britain, Greece and Turkey granted the Mediterranean island independence last month, was given in the Cyprus capital of Nicosia to correspondent Paul Palaiologos of Athen's Ta Nea.

In it the grizzled underground leader answered several questions including the big one—whether he will seek a future in Cyprus politics. The answer was "no."

He said he would not step into politics because Greek Cypriot leader Archbishop Makarios, the frontrunner for election as an independent Cyprus' first president, is the one who is "competent" in politics.

Grivas did not not say where he had spent the last three years while British soldiers hunted him in hills and farm houses and nearly 10,000 pounds reward was put on his head.

Grivas admitted granting the island independence was not the solution he had sought. He said it had not been expected but was "preferable" to "continued national discord."

He stoutly defended the rebel Eoka corps and his role as its leader.

"First of all," he said, "I carried out honestly and according to my national conscience an armed fight for Cyprus' freedom. I administered ruthless attacks against the enemy and won."

Grivas himself was ordered to leave Cyprus, because of his role as the Eoka leader, in an amnesty settlement announced earlier by Britain's Cyprus governor, Sir Hugh Foot.

Britain has blamed Grivas and Eoka members for the number of hundreds of innocent persons including mothers and children. In all, some 510 persons died violent deaths during the Cyprus warfare —including 278 Greeks, 142 Britons, 84 Turks and two Americans.
