

U.S., 27 Nations To Open New Tariff Talks

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UPI)—The United States and 27 other countries will open a new round of negotiations on mutual tariff concessions later this year, the State Department said yesterday.

The negotiations will be conducted at a conference on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) which is expected to begin at Geneva, Switzerland, next September.

The State Department released a list of products considered for possible U.S. tariff concessions, and another list of goods on which the U.S. may seek concessions from other nations.

Both lists include thousands of items ranging from automobiles to a wide variety of agricultural products and foodstuffs.

Cuts are on both lists, which means that the United States is considering a lowering of its tariffs on imported cars, but will also demand that other countries decrease duties on American-made cars.

Rather Insistent

Secretary of Commerce Fredrick H. Mueller stressed that both lists were tentative and subject to change.

Mueller said U.S. negotiators will be "rather insistent" on their demands that other countries should provide a wide market for American cars by lowering import tariffs.

The lists also envisage a lowering of foreign tariffs on American whiskey and concessions on American duties on such foreign-made spirits as whiskey, gin, brandy, aquavit and kirschwasser.

"There are ample safeguards that no hardships will be worked on American industry," Mueller said.

He said the list of contemplated concessions by the United States does not contain products which at the present time are subjected to "a considerable degree of foreign competition."

The committee on Tuesday will hear testimony by Director Allen W. Dulles of the top secret Central Intelligence Agency which played a major role in U.S. aerial espionage over Russia. But little, if any, of Dulles' testimony will be made public.

Sen. Albert Gore (D, Tenn.), another committee member, said that one "extremely important question" the committee still must pursue was President Eisenhower's statement in his nationwide address on the U-2 flight. Eisenhower said "the question was whether to halt the program and thus forego the gathering of important information that was essential and that was likely to be unavailable at a later date."

Williams Moves In; Plans Jan. Visit To Africa

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy's first foreign policy appointee lost no time yesterday in moving into his new job as assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

It took 49-year-old Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams just five hours to get behind his new desk at the State Department after Kennedy's announcement of his appointment yesterday.

In rapid order after his appointment, Williams:

- Announced he will visit Africa between his Jan. 1 retirement as

- dean of the nation's governors and Kennedy's Jan. 20 inauguration.
- Warned the United States faces a "great challenge" in Africa from Russia.
- Paid a courtesy call on the man he will replace, James C. Satterthwaite and other State Department Africa affairs specialists.
- While Satterthwaite adjusted a shade to keep the late afternoon sun out of his successor's eyes, Williams met briefly with newsmen. The two men then posed for pictures behind Satterthwaite's desk.
- The six-term governor, who bowed out of office "so I can work for the cause of peace," was asked if he agreed with the African views expressed by Kennedy during his campaign.

"I wouldn't be around here very long if I didn't go along with them," Williams said. "And if I didn't believe in him I wouldn't have been one of his earliest supporters."

G. MENNEN WILLIAMS
...work for peace"

Kennedy said he appointed Williams to a position of responsibility second to none in the new administration.

African diplomats in Washington who know Williams as a champion of civil rights, generally appeared to welcome the appointment. They expressed pleasure that Kennedy emphasized the importance of the position by filling it with the first of his major appointments.
