Egypt's Suez Canal Plans Impress Bank Leaders

CAIRO, April 8 (UP) — World Bank President Eugene Black said today he was impressed with Egypt's immediate plans for improving the Suez Canal, and announced the World Bank would participate in studies for longer range development.

He said: "Both (bank expert Gen. Raymond) Wheeler and myself have been impressed with the competence with which the canal is being operated and with the plans for improvements over the coming months."

Black made the statement after a conference with President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Commerce Minister Abdel Moneim Kaisouny and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi during the 24 hours before he was scheduled to leave for London, early today.

He said Egypt was opening international bids for an immediate canal improvement program May 15.

2-Year Program

Wheeler, who has been here three weeks studying the plans, said it will be a two year dredging program to deepen the draught of the canal from 34 feet to 37 feet, which would allow passage of ships up to 29,000 tons.

He said the average numbers of ships passing through the canal last month was ten more, daily, than when the canal was closed after the Anglo-French attack.

Black said additional studies were needed on long-range canal development and "the World Bank will undertake some of these studies in cooperation with the Suez Canal Authority."

He said the bank would pay for the studies it undertook, but had refused a loan to Egypt for canal development.

BLACK

Wheeler said as far as he knew no French or British firms were bidding for the short range development program.

Black said he had discussed the compensation talks between Egypt and the Suez Canal Co. which were adjourned in Rome last Saturday. He said the Rome talks would be resumed "at a time and place to be determined later."

Jakarta Denies, Others Confirm Red Arms Deal

JAKARTA, April 8 (UP) — The Indonesian Foreign Office denied anew today it had completed an arms deal with the Communist bloc, but other well informed sources said the government has negotiated a $250,000,000 deal and the arms will start arriving the middle of next month.

According to these sources, the deal includes MIG fighters, small ships to combat smuggling and small arms.

Foreign Office spokesman Rudy Gonta said no deal had been completed, and the government was not contemplating buying MIGs.

Other government sources also denied the reports that Indonesia had completed a deal with Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

An Army-Navy-Air Force mission left Jakarta Dec. 31 on a European arms buying tour. They returned two weeks ago.

Sources said they carried "$250,000,000" for purchasing, and they had spent most of it.

They said $100,000,000 had been spent by the Air Force, the rest split up by the Army and Navy, most of it spent on small arms.

'Egypt' Deal

The arms were bought from Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, the sources said, but the deal would be announced as having been signed with "neutral" Egypt.

The big mystery created by the reports is where the money is coming from. The sources referring to the quarter billion dollars, said Indonesia "hasn't got that kind of money."

They said it would probably take a year for all the arms to come through, and it would create a big supply problem with half the Indonesian Army Western-armed and the other half Communist armed.

It might also spark off some criticism of the United States, for not keeping the Indonesian Army standardized to the Western pattern, they added.

Padang Leaders Escape Bombing

BUKITTINGGI, April 8 (AP)—Bunhanudin Harahap, rebel Defense Minister, escaped death tonight when unknown assassins attempted to kill him with hand grenades.

Harahap, is one of the top rebel leaders.

The attack severely injured a police inspector, and two constables were slightly injured.

Grenades also landed near the office of rebel Premier Sjafruddin Prawiranegara. However, both Harahap and Sjafruddin had already left for home when the attack took place.

The assassins were still at large and guards at the homes of Sjafruddin and Harahap have been strengthened to prevent further attempts.

E. Williams Divorces

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 8 (UP)—Acquatic actress Esther Williams today was awarded a divorce from her husband, industrialist Ben Gage.

$2-Million Buddhist Center For Washington

WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — Burmese Ambassador U Win said yesterday a private two million dollar Buddhist center is being planned for Washington.

Funds for the project would come from contributions by Buddhist organizations in Ceylon, Burma, India, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Korea and Japan, where there are over 100 million Buddhists.

British Queen Rejects Royal Film Show

LONDON, April 23 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has turned down her invitation to this year's Royal Command film performance, ending an annual tradition of glittering nights at which the world's movie stars meet Britain's royal family.

But with the glitter of these occasions has come stinging criticisms of the bosoms and the bloopers that have often dominated these royal presentations.

Queen Elizabeth, in a letter to film chiefs yesterday, said the reason she cannot attend this year is that she wants to spread her limited time around a wider field of charities.

But British newspapers today recalled some past criticism of the handling of royal shows.

There were plenty when voluptuous stars curtsied before their majesties in low cut gowns chosen to please press agents more than royalty.

Film Rows

There have been rows over the choice of films. The biggest furor was in 1954, when the Queen was shown the Hollywood-made "Beau Brummel," in which one of her royal ancestors was portrayed as a drooling madman.

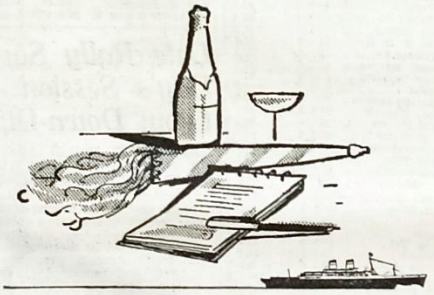

Stars who have met the Queen and Prince Philip on these occasions in recent years include Marilyn Monroe, Jayne Mansfield, Sophia Loren, William Holden and Victor Mature.

Each year the stars would be assembled in a long line in the theater foyer and would be presented to the Queen.

It was an occasion for glittering, glamorous gowns. The deep-plunge curtsies usually stole the show.
