

Abbas Urges Moslems: Boycott Algerian Vote

TUNIS, May 12 (AP)—Algerian rebel leader Ferhat Abbas called on Algeria's nine million Moslems today to refuse to participate in the cantonal elections France has scheduled in Algeria May 29.

"It is to you that goes the honor and the courage to say 'no' to electoral prefabrication," Abbas said in a message to the Algerians.

"This responsibility is incumbent on you. While your soldiers fight and die with arms in their hands, the duty of all is to bring failure to the operations of treason."

Abbas charged that French administrative officials, troops and police "will lead you to the ballot boxes to vote according to orders established in advance in Paris and supervised in Algiers."

President Charles de Gaulle has ordered the elections through which he hopes to bring forth a Moslem elite to help bring an end to the five-year-old Algerian rebellion. He has said that everyone who is not an armed rebel can take part in the vote and run for office. De Gaulle has told the Army to protect polling places but to stay out of politics.

In the past, the Army has taken an active political role in Algeria and encouraged the Moslems to vote for candidates and programs favored by the Army.

Ike Considers Talk To Nation

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower is considering making a statement to the American people before he leaves Saturday for the Paris summit conference, the White House said today.

Assistant Press Secretary Anne Wheaton said the circumstances under which the President may make a statement are still undecided.

There is a possibility of Eisenhower recording a statement before television cameras for use about the time he leaves.

White House Breakfast

Moore and several other Republican Congressmen had breakfast with Eisenhower at the White House.

Reporters asked whether there was any discussion of Khrushchev's remarks regarding the scheduled presidential visit to the Soviet Union.

"Yes, there was," Moore reported.

"He (Eisenhower) said the invitation still stands so far as he is concerned."

"He said that if he (Khrushchev) wants to withdraw the invitation, it's all right with me."

Moore quoted Eisenhower as saying further that the 10 days he now is scheduled to spend in Russia "could be utilized elsewhere" if the Kremlin leader should withdraw the invitation. Eisenhower did not elaborate on that, Moore said.

But there has been talk that the President might take a general tour of Asian allied nations in such a case. He already has plans to visit Japan and Korea along with Russia.

In response to a question, Moore said Eisenhower made it plain he intends to wait for Khrushchev to bring up the matter of the visit to Russia. The Kremlin leader said yesterday that he and Eisenhower would discuss the matter when they meet in Paris next week for the summit conference.

Moore was also asked whether there was any talk at today's White House session about the fact that Russian newspapers were not carrying accounts of Khrushchev's sharp remarks about Eisenhower.

Meanwhile, in London the belief grew among Western governments that Khrushchev will ask President Eisenhower to postpone his visit to Russia due next month.

A variety of arguments supporting this view has reached Western capitals from diplomats in Moscow, qualified officials reported.

Among these arguments:

(1) The Soviet Premier may have been genuinely surprised, angered and even politically hurt by the affair of the U-2 which exposed weaknesses in Soviet air defenses. This may explain the emotional Khrushchev's runaway condemnation of Eisenhower's role in the incident.

(2) Even before the flight and descent of the U-2, Khrushchev may have been under stiff pressure by old guard Communists in Russia as well as in Red China to quit his dickering with statesmen of the West. There have been persistent signs over a period suggesting that Mao Tse-tung's men consider the Soviet chief in danger of being tainted with softness and respectability.

(3) Khrushchev may figure there is little percentage in playing host to an outgoing President who would expect, among other things, facilities to address the Russian people over television and through their newspapers. Coming so soon after his deep expressions of indignation at Eisenhower's condemnation of the Peeping-Tom plane, such a visit could be embarrassing.

Diplomats in London think a postponement of the Eisenhower visit really might mean its cancellation.

UK Telescope Picks Up U. S. Moon Signals

JODRELL BANK, England, May 12 (AP)—Britain's giant radio telescope today picked up signals bounced off the moon by U.S. space researchers at Holmdel, N.J.

The signals were an hour-long test for Project Echo, in which a balloon will be sent 1,000 miles above the earth and signals bounced off it to all parts of the globe.

20 Broadway Shows Meet Labor Snags

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Broadway play and musical producers have halted all production planning on new autumn shows because of lack of progress in current contract negotiations with Actors Equity Association, the stage actors' labor union, theater sources said today.

Suspension of production activity means the producers will sign no further contracts for players, costumes, scenery or any other elements of a Broadway show.

Immediately affected are between 17 and 20 shows, including at least five big musicals, scheduled to come into New York next autumn.

Equity was asking for a pension plan for retired actors, increased welfare benefits and increases in minimum wages for actors. The producers feel granting these demands would mean a 25 per cent increase in theater ticket prices and lead to similar demands from the other stage unions.
