Lend me your Ears

By RACHAEL BAUMEL

BISSOLATI BRIEFS: USIS TV and radio chief Cliff Naughton and wife Patti, whose Austin-Healey was stolen Saturday night from Via Siacci, now have it back in their possession. Seems that the guy who made off with it was tearing down a street near the Ministry of the Interior and hit a motor scooter. The person on it wasn't hurt but the scooter was demolished and the usual crowd gathered. The guy in the car leapt out and disappeared. Just in time, too, because the accident had happened right around the corner from a police station. The police traced it back to the Naughtons and all is well — expect the thief, who must have been a terrible driver, had smashed in the rear of the auto . . . Ed Harrison, brother of Broadway's bouncing Jack Harrison and the man who released Vittorio De Sica's "Umberto D." in America, due at the Excelsior on Sunday. He'll look at several new Italian films, then go to Cannes for the festival. They all laughed when Harrison took "Umberto D." to the States. Rome cinema circles said it didn't have a chance. It enjoyed a three-month run on Broadway and was voted the best foreign film of 1955 by the New York motion picture critics . . . Met star Gladys Swarthout and her husband, Frank Chapman, have reopened their villa in Florence after an 11-day return trip to Italy on a tanker which carried them from Perth Amboy, N. J., to Genoa. "From every standpoint the most comfortable trip we ever made," writes Chapman. "Wonderful food, a fine group of officers and an out-of-the-ordinary crew. The ship rode like a rubber-tired baby carriage in Central Park" . . . four NBC execs arriving here in May for business conferences on the completion of reorganization of the network's coverage in the Mediterranean area and to plan for productions to be done under area headquarters here in Rome. NBC's financial vice president J. M. Clifford and engineering executive Andy Hammerschmidt are slated to get here the 5th, while news vice president Davidson Taylor and director of TV special events Barry Wood are expected the 15th. Mediterranean area chief Merrill "Red" Mueller tells us, by the way, that NBC's staff and equipment in this part of the world has grown from five people and three transmitters to 35 people and nine transmitters. Red, who'll probably be heading toward the States this summer to cover the national conventions in Chicago and San Francisco, just got word from the Overseas Press Club that he and CBS' Bill Downs were runners-up for the best reporting from abroad award.

FORUMEANDERINGS: Writer Sam Astrachan, whose book "An End to Dying," being published by Farrar Straus, appears this week in New York, staying at the International here—writing a second book . . . Thomas McDermott, vice president of New York ad agency N.W. Ayer, arrives in Rome the 9th—with his bride. The happy couple will be at the De La Ville . . . A. W. Berry, owner of United States Fidelity Insurance Company, Philadelphia, slated to check in at the Grand May 2—just vacationing . . . John Kitzmiller off for Lubeana, Yugoslavia, Wednesday for a starring role in "Peace Valley"—World War II film. His last was "Il Nostro Campione" . . . Revlon Products exec Charles Lachman and Mrs L PAA in from New York today . . . Father James Cunningham of Santa Susanna has been really busy for the last ten days. He celebrated the sixth wedding Mass during that time Wednesday when Rosemarie Palma and Angelo D'Nunzio said their "I dos" at the home of the bride's brother, Franco Palma, head of Squibb Laboratories here. The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Anthony Palma and Mrs Palma, and among the guests was former premier Mario Scelba . . . but Father Cunningham will be officiating at his seventh wedding ceremony when Dorothy Santopadre and Alex Matturri are wed at the Altar of the Chair in St. Peter's tomorrow. They'll be the first Americans to be married at this altar and as far as Vatican records show it's the first time any wedding Mass has been celebrated there . . . TWA's vice president overseas Pierre Desautels and his wife checked in at the Excelsior yesterday . . . Msgr. Ernest Primeau, rector of the Chicago College (Santa Maria del Lago), will preach at the 10 o'clock, 11 o'clock and 12 o'clock Masses at Santa Susanna Sunday.

HERE & THERE: Bologna chapter of Lambda Phi Mu, American medical fraternity, in the midst of a lot of activities at the moment. They've just elected new officers—Alexander M. Yvars, president; Joseph San Filippo, vice president; Michael R. Quatrella, secretary, and Vincent S. Rosati, treasurer. Quatrella is from Montclair, N. J.; all the others are New Yorkers. The fraternity, which now has a membership of 100 students, has bought more baseball equipment for Bologna's Boys' Town and is eagerly awaiting warm weather so they can show the kids how to use it. On the professional side, they've been showing medical films each week and report that Italian students have been flocking to them, even though the films were in English . . . that old story about raising enough children for a baseball team could be true in the case of Lt. Col. Robert C. Brugh Jr. of the SETAF G-3 Section and his wife, Catherine. They've recently had their ninth child—Dennis—who was born at the U.S. Army Hospital, Leghorn. Dennis' eight brothers and sisters are: Susan, Robert III, Ann, Patrick, Jane, Mary, James and Heidi.

CULTURAMA: Miniature paintings by Fulco currently on view at the Sagittarius... opening tomorrow evening at 6 at San Marco gallery, a show of paintings by young Roman artist Ida Ciocci . . . the Austrian Cultural Center spotlighting a two-piano concert by Heinz Scholz and Paul Schilhawsky from the Salzburg Mozarteum at 9 Monday night. They'll play music of Bach, Mozart and Reger . . . opening at the Selecta tomorrow evening at 6 the gallery's eighth show of Argentine painters. Artists represented are: Raquel Forner, Gertrudis Chale and Juan Battle Planas . . . and at the Marguttiana Gallery, also tomorrow evening, also at 6, they're opening a show of works by Renee Desderi.

Oscar Doesn't Impress Nuns

Franciscan missionary nuns started a legal action yesterday to stop 1956 Oscar winner Anna Magnani from wearing their habit in a new movie she is making.

Miss Magnani, who won the Oscar for her role in the Hollywood picture "The Rose Tattoo," was to wear the nun's habit in the Italian movie "Gli Angeli Non Volano" (Angels Don't Fly). One publicity picture showed her in the nun's garb blowing a trumpet in a scene from the film.

The sisters claimed that the use of their habit in the film amounted to profaning an order whose members are spread throughout the world.

Tosćanini Kin Marries Duke

MILAN, April 12 (AP)—Tall and lovely Countess Emanuela Castelbarco, granddaughter of maestro Arturo Toscanini, was married here today to Duke Luigi Filippo Acquarone.

Emanuela is the only daughter of Count Emanuel Castelbarco and of Wally Toscanini, the maestro's daughter.

The groom is son of a former minister of the Italian royal family.

Toscanini did not attend, but was represented by his son Walter.

The ceremony was performed by Msgr. Ernesto Pisoni, editor of Milan's Catholic newspaper, L'Italia.

The bride wore a white lace gown and veil. The embroidery work and the gown reproduced a drawing by Italian painter Paolo Uccello.

Donna Fosca Crespi Puccini, daughter of the composer Giacomo Puccini, author of "Boheme" and "Butterfly," was bridesmaid.

Italy Theater Highly Praised By American

"Italy will have a national theater within five years," predicted playwright-professor Dr. John T. Dugan of Catholic University of America to the American Women's Association of Rome yesterday.

Introduced at the Casina delle Rose luncheon meeting by Mrs Philip Conicy, wife of U.S. Embassy cultural affairs officer, Dugan described a "renaissance in Italian theater," attributing it mainly to the interest, encouragement and assistance of the Italian government to both professional independent dramatic companies and little theater groups.

"Intense national interest and partial subsidies from the government and official tourist agencies keep prices low and dramatic quality high," said Dugan, "and governmental assistance doesn't mean censorship in Italy."

"Italy has more wide-spread professional theater than the U.S., said Dugan, "and the best theater at reduced prices in the world."

FORUMEANDERINGS: If you're riding in a cab and the driver announces at the end of the trip that the fare is higher than the meter indicates, don't get upset. He's telling the truth. Cab fares have gone up and the meters haven't caught up with the increase. You still begin at the same price — 130 lire — but you wind up with a higher tariff, because instead of accumulating fare at the rate of 20 lire every time the meter clicks, you're now being charged 25 lire. The new rules have abolished the 10-lire extra charge for each additional person more than two and you don't have to pay an extra 10 lire for small suitcases. But the 100 lire charge for large suitcases (measuring over 26 inches) and trunks remains the same. You still have to fork over an extra 30 lire for phoning a cab or for taking your dog along, but there's no increase in the 150 lire supplement for night cab fares. Only difference is that it now extends from 10 p.m. till 7 in the morning. Under the old rules it went off at 6 a.m. . . . Add transportation notes: the other day we spotted a Topolino courageously carrying a bass fiddle. At least half of the fiddle was pointing skyward through the top of the car, but the little auto charged along bravely at the usual rate of speed . . . Mike Stern has left for New York and conferences with the editors of True magazine — and also to attend the Holohan trial . . . Scanty Duds Put Marilyn On Ice

HOLLYWOOD, April 13 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe has been hospitalized suffering from what her studio described as acute bronchitis.

Her illness developed after Marilyn worked in the snow wearing only a thin dress on the Sun Valley, location of her picture "Bus Stop." The troupe had gone to the snow country from the desert country of Phoenix.

Church Says Wally Stirs Bitter Embers

LONDON, April 13 (AP)—The Church of England newspaper declared today the Duchess of Windsor, by publishing her memoirs, will "stir afresh the fire of bitterness and discord" aroused by her husband's abdication.

The weekly paper said it would have been much better if the American-born former Wallis Warfield Simpson for whom King Edward VIII gave up the throne, had waited until all the principals in the affair—including herself—were dead.

The paper is run by lay editors but often echoes the views of the Anglican hierarchy. It commented:

"It must be a matter for regret that the Duchess of Windsor should have chosen to publish her memoirs and—perhaps even more—that the Sunday Express should have undertaken to serialize them in this country.

"What possible good can result? It may be, as the Duchess claims, that the true story of the abdication has not yet been told.

"But is this the time to tell it? The Duchess, albeit unintentionally, has already caused great damage to the monarchy. It could not be otherwise.

"But need she add to the damage now?

"The royal family has just undergone a period of stress and trial not dissimilar to that which centered around the Duchess" (a reference to the Princess Margaret-Peter Townsend romance). "Surely in these circumstances, the Duchess would have been better advised to remain silent."

27 Nations To Show Stuff At Padua Fair

PADUA, April 13 (AP)—Eighteen nations have applied for official exhibits at Padua's international agricultural and industrial fair to be held here May 29 to June 13.

The fair's president, Mario Saggin, announced nine more countries are preparing their applications, so that 27 nations are expected to participate.

Guests on hand read like a Who's Who of Rome, American Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce and husband Time-Life publisher Henry Luce, many embassy folks, including the Frank Snowdens, Ned Nordness and wife, the William Crocketts, the Walter Doyles and the consulate's Bartley Gordon, practicaly the entire Rome press corps — among them the Ed Jackson, the Stan Swintons, Reynolds Packard, the Merrill "Red" Muellers, plus folks from other airlines, travel agencies, Col. Ugo Musco, director of Ciampino and the list could go on and on . . . Ambassador Luce won't be leaving for the States after the 26th after all. Embassy business is keeping her from taking the trip at this time. She will be in Milan the 23rd for American Day at the Fair and plans to visit the Turin Auto Show the 24th . . . ex-king Farouk arrived in Monaco yesterday with an impressive suite to attend The Wedding. He had left Rome Sunday night after receiving a personal call from Prince Rainier telling him he could take one of his Albanian bodyguards along. Members of Farouk's staff had said earlier on Sunday that he felt that security arrangements in Monaco were inadequate. The former monarch has recently received several letters threatening his life . . . Edwin Schaefer of Time-Life in Rome visiting Hank Kaufman and Gene Lerner. He'll be here for a week . . . Danny Kaye's show at the Teatro Valle Wednesday evening at 9 will be broadcast over RAI Friday night at 9.

LUCIE VALORE UTRILLO, widow of famed French painter Maurice Utrillo, walked into a show of her husband's lithographs at La Medusa Gallery here Saturday night, spotted a painting that had been loaned by a Roman engineer as an addition to the show and exclaimed excitedly that it was no work of her husband's. A spokesman for the painter's widow, who is also an artist, explained that "everything in it says it is wrong."

Madame Utrillo declared flatly that this painting hadn't been done by her husband. Owners of the painting engineer Corrado Bollo and his wife said that they had bought it from a man named De Crescenzio, who formerly had an antique shop here. But the painting was accredited with a letter from Pedrités in Paris, dealer in Utrillos, they explained. Madame Utrillo was not swayed, she insisted that it was no work of her husband's. Asked what they thought about the whole situation, Bollo and his wife just shook their heads sadly and said they didn't know.

The actual show at the gallery spotlights lithographs — two of them autographed by the painter. The artist's widow, a charming blonde lady wearing a black net hat, black dress, mink coat and leaning on an ivory-headed cane, will be having a show of her own works at the gallery sometime in the fall. Questioned about how she enjoyed the Quadriennale art show here in Rome, Madame Utrillo replied that it was "very beautiful, very interesting." She said that she had enjoyed the work of many of the painters, and that she had liked Massimo Campigli's work very much — and of course, Modigliani, adding that there were some very beautiful works by the Italian painter in the exhibit. Madame Utrillo also said that she liked the sculpture and thought that it was very new and very interesting.

Italian Styles Featured In Look Magazine

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—The current issue of Look magazine presents a five-page picture display of fashions from Italy as worn by a group of titled Italian women who recently visited the United States.

If the models' display was successful, Look says, "Italy will see a record influx of American buyers at its fashion shows in July. The aristocratic ladies were highly optimistic."

Most of the pictures were taken on board the liner Cristoforo Colombo as it crossed the Atlantic.

The magazine quotes Contessa Marisa Brandolini as saying "even the cloakroom girl at El Morocco asked me where I got my dress."
