2,000 were sterilized in the Chamdo part of Eastern Tibet alone.

Promised

He also promised to produce some youths who were deported to Peiping for indoctrination but who, on their return, to Tibet fled to India.

The committee was named by the International Commission of Jurists, a non-governmental organization of free world legal leaders

Committee members come from India, the Philippines, Malaya, Thailand, Ceylon and Ghana

The Dalai Lama was scheduled to continue his testimony after lunch

INDIANS RETURNED

NEW DELHI, Nov 14 (UPI)—The Chinese Communists today returned 10 Indians taken prisoner in a clash in Ladakh Oct 21

They also returned the bodies of nine Indians killed in the clash

The Indian government said the hand-over was made near the spot where the Indians were ambushed, near the Chinese frontier between Tibet and Kashmir.

An Indian police party took the returned prisoners and the bodies to nearby Hot Springs, to wait transportation back to India

An Indian spokesman said there was no complete list of the men returned, but they include a police constable formerly believed dead.

'Tactical Delay' Puts Off 18-Jet Atlantic Flight

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C., Nov. 14 (UPI) — An 18-plane squadron of F-104 "Starfighters" was scheduled to leave here today on a 4,500 mile nonstop flight to Seville, Spain, but a spokesman said the flight had been "delayed."

The Air Force in Washington announced earlier that the flight had been scheduled for Friday but was put off until today. A spokesman this morning said there had been another "tactical delay."

streaming into the towns of Usumbura, Kigali and Astrida. Hundreds more have fled over the northern border into Uganda.

The sudden influx of refugees is already posing a food problem. Town-dwellers have been buying up all available food and distribution has been completely disrupted by the fighting.

The 2,000 Colonial Army troops have fanned out to cover key road junctions, approaches to towns and main villages preventing the movement of armed bands of Africans who had been moving freely during the past week.

Headed Back

The bands, mostly Bahutus, struck into Watutsi villages from the hills and jungle, killed the inhabitants, fired plantations then headed back into the hills.

The 300 European paratroopers are guarding the town of Kigali, the main road center of the area, with light armored vehicles.

Another detachment of the paratroopers is surrounding the residence of the Watutsi Chief King Kigeri at the town of Nyanza.

Callas Separated By Mutual Consent

BRESCIA, Nov. 14 (AP)—Soprano Maria Callas and her husband, Giovan Battista Meneghini, formally separated tonight after 10 years of marriage.

Their separation "by mutual consent" was formalized in court.

The American singer and her Italian husband reached an agreement for immediate division of their common property.

As a consequence of the separation "by mutual consent," Meneghini withdrew a suit he had filed against Miss Callas demanding a separation for "reasons depending on the fault of the wife."

Under the separation decree Miss Callas and her estranged husband are no longer obliged to live together. But the separation "by mutual consent" implies that they must continue to give each other "mutual assistance" and must keep "a mutual faithfulness."

What About Payment Of Import Duties?

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP)—Dr. Sanchi Mizushima, a Tokyo University physicist here for research work at the University of Buffalo, is having difficulty finding something suitable to send home as a souvenir.

Nearly all of them are marked "Made in Japan," he says.

preventing livestock from foraging. Ranchers broke through the drifts with tractors yesterday to reach part of the herds and flocks.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was grounded in Wisconsin and had to switch from airplane to car. Sen. John Kennedy (D., Mass.) also ran afoul of Wisconsin weather and was two hours behind schedule.

The record-breaking cold wave spread from Montana through the West, dropping the mercury to 10 below in Colorado and 30 below in Wyoming with more of the same due tonight.

SOUTH ITALY STORM

The southern Italian region of Calabria yesterday started the slow process of digging itself out of a violent winter storm which spread havoc through the mountainous area.

At least two persons were dead in Calabria, in the toe of the Italian boot. An estimated 800 homes were flooded in the city of Catanzaro alone. Landslides and flooded rivers disrupted road and rail traffic throughout the area and wrecked telephone communications.

Calabria appeared to be the hardest hit area in storms which swept Italy from the Alps in the north to the island of Sicily in the south.

Police said they feared the situation in Calabria might turn out to be even more serious than they believed. Officers explained that they had lost contact with many villages in the Calabrian mountains but could only assume that these hamlets also were hard hit.

At Catania, on the island of Sicily across the Strait of Messina from Calabria, winds of 100 kilometers (62 miles) an hour ripped roofs off dozens of houses.

In Bari, a port on the heel of Italy, rains weakened a three-year-old five-story apartment building. Big cracks developed in the walls. Eleven families comprising 64 persons were evacuated from the building.

was indignant at first, but the officers explained it just isn't usual for a man to go around giving away money.

At any rate, they couldn't hold him for giving away his own money, so off he went again presumably to hand out more bills.

Asked to explain his generosity, Foster answered: "Look at it this way. If you were poor, would you rather go to the welfare department, where you have to tell them everything about yourself, or would you rather just know that there is someone who can help you without all of that?"

When asked if he had a religious motive, he replied: "Yes, I suppose you would say I have." Other than that, he wasn't saying much.

Aircraft Executive Refuses Govt. Job

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP)—Aircraft executive Dr. Charles L. Critchfield today withdrew acceptance of his appointment as director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

"Under present circumstances," said, "I do not believe I could do justice to this important job."

Critchfield, director of scientific research for Convair, a division of General Dynamics Corp., said he has informed the Defense Department of his decision.

Critchfield said that general misunderstanding and public controversy had impaired his ability to serve.

He was referring to statements by Rep. Chet Holifield (D., Calif.) and others who said there might be a conflict of interest in Critchfield's appointment to the pentagon scientific agency because he still would retain his Convair job and pay, estimated at $40,000 annually.
