STEP OUT FOR NEW SEASON — Charlie O'Hara (21) of Milmont, Pa., leads the way as Notre Dame footballers run through ropes to limber up at South Bend, Ind., at start of practice for new season. Other players are Paul Costa (45), Port Chester, N.Y.; Frank Budka (2), Pompano Beach, Fla.; Joe Maxwell (41), Glenside, Pa., and Jim Snowden (33) of Youngstown, Ohio. First game is against Oklahoma on Sept. 30.

Changes In Offense Mark '61 Football

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) — College football teams from coast-to-coast called it quits to summer vacations Friday when they begin pre-season practice for the 1961 season, due to begin under a full head of steam soon. And when the drills began, they showed changes and offensive renovations from Oregon State to Miami, and from UCLA to Syracuse.

These have been dictated by the fact that the defenses started catching up with the offense last fall in many cases, and the need for drastic changes and revitalizations to meet talent situations in others.

Many of the teams which will unveil new wrinkles in their attacks when the season opens are located on or near either the Atlantic or Pacific seaboard.

Oregon State

Independent Oregon State is adding the multiple T to its traditional single wing so that bedeviled defenses now will have to cope with Terry (The Terrific) Baker as both quarterback and tailback.

At Miami a new razzle-dazzle attack has been made possible by the arrival of prize sophomore quarterbacks George Mira and John Bennett.

Miami coach Andy Gustafson switched last year's starting quarterback Eddie Johns to left half and James Volenweider from halfback to fullback, added the lonely end and promises a balanced attack with more passing.

At UCLA, coach Bill Barnes is trying to contend with what he calls his All-America schedule by dressing up his multiple single wing and "W" formations. Now he's got the end-over and fullback-in-motion series with Bob Smith succeeding Bill Kilmer at tailback.

Syracuse plans to challenge Penn State's bid for eastern supremacy with a dose of slot T added to the unbalanced wing T which had long marked Floyd Schwartzwalder's productions. Among the many position changes: Dave Meggyesy tackle to guard, Dick Easterly quarter to halfback, John Charette guard to fullback.

Stanford

Air-minded Stanford and Washington State are trying to inject some old fashioned ball carrying to balance their attacks. The loss of pass-master Dick Norman has Stanford going into the "spread split T." The Cougars seek to make their national championship battery of Mel Melin and Hugh Campbell even more potent.

While Cornell and Miami add the lonely end, Wake Forest is dropping it now that passer Norm Snead is gone.

Army's Dick Eckert, Yale's Bill Leckonby and Washington's Kermit Jorgensen are reasons all three clubs plan more quarterback run-pass option maneuvers.

Washington's Rose Bowl kings are countering heavy graduation losses by switching Jim Skaags from end to guard, John Meyers end to tackle, Ray Mansfield tackle to center and Bob Monroe half to fullback. Red shirts and transfer students abound. And don't be surprised if coach Jim Owens administers a little of the red eye formation he installed especially for the Rose Bowl conquest of national champion Minnesota.

Duffy Daugherty will work the "bi-line" series at Michigan State whereby every Spartan play can be run to the left or right from either a balanced or unbalanced line.

Nebraska moves to the pro-style slot offense from the split T, while Brigham Young goes single wing.

A heavier Ronnie Bull goes from halfback to full at Baylor, and quarterback Roger McFarland tries his hand at full for Kansas in some major position switches. Nebraska's Bill (Thunder) Thornton goes the other way, fullback to halfback.

Hill, Von Trips Battle Sunday At Monza For Drivers' Crown

MONZA, Sept. 6 (AP) — Thirty-seven crack drivers from 12 countries are in the final list of entries for Sunday's Grand Prix of Italy automobile race — last event counting towards the drivers' championship, organizers announced.

With 12 drivers Britain provides the biggest national participation in the formula one classic, followed by Italy with ten pilots.

Other entries are from the United States, five, West Germany, two, and one each from Mexico, Australia, New Zealand, Sweden, France, Belgium, Switzerland and the Netherlands.

Topping the list of favorites to win the 430-km (267-mile) event are British ace Stirling Moss in a Lotus, Australia's Jack Brabham, in a Cooper, Germany's Wolfgang von Trips and U.S. driver Phil Hill, both in Ferraris.

The German and American aces actually are the only two drivers still in contest for the drivers' world crown.

Von Trips leads the title standings with 33 points, followed by Phil Hill, with 31 points.

Moss is lagging behind and out of the contest, with 21 points, followed by Richie P. Ginther, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Sports experts picked the four as top favorites, but for different reasons.

They picked Stirling Moss because he won last Sunday's Grand Prix of Modena race, in Modena, and Jack Brabham because, as defending champion, he also has a prestige to defend.

Equally favored, because of the powerful machines they will drive, are the Ferrari team's leaders, Von Trips and Hill.

Herman Voted Top Athlete As Israeli Games Conclude

TEL AVIV, Israel, Sept. 6 (AP) — Mike Herman, the 24-year-old American track and field veteran, has closed out his international career in a blaze of glory.

Herman, of New York University fame, was chosen the outstanding male athlete of the sixth Maccabean games last night for his harvest of three gold medals, two silver and one bronze.

The versatile athlete, whose lean frame belies his stamina, received a huge silver trophy at the closing ceremony in Ramat Gan stadium. Herman retained his decathlon title. He also won the broad jump and pole vault, and took seconds in the hop, step and jump and also meter relay and a third in the high jump.

Brunette Madelaine Bergman, 20, an Australian schoolteacher, was honored as the outstanding female athlete of the Jewish Olympics. She collected four medals. She won the 200 and 800 meters runs.

The United States squad, second only to Israel in numbers with 136 athletes, also was presented with a cup for having won the most gold medals, 58. Israel was next with 28-12.

Sixth Fleet Runs Amphib Exercise In Sardinia

Based on continuously updated battle plans, the operation was given an added realism by the creation of a "history" for the exercise. The country of "Sierra" (the Italian military reservation) had been overrun by the "Purples." The fleeing Sierra President asked the U.S. to intervene with the Sixth Fleet.

The attack began with a heavy naval and air bombardment of enemy positions "defended" by a company of Marines, and a reconnaissance and preparation of the beach by frog men. This morning, the first of ten waves of Marines and equipment stormed down the ramps of their landing craft in the pitch black and onto the beach, with tanks, cranes, and the tiny new "mechanical mules."

Shortly after daybreak, helicopter lifted Marines hit another beach 3 miles away at Porto Tomazzu to start a giant pincer movement on objectives in "Sierra."

The Marines were assisted by air strikes by jets called in from the carriers USS Independence and Saratoga. Ahead of the Marines are three days of hard fighting in rugged terrain. After the area is cleared of all personnel, the Fleet's air and ship fire power will practice with live ammunition against rocky Cape Teulada.

Superbly coordinated with the Navy are Marines of the 3rd Battalion, 2nd Regiment of the 2nd Division who are berthed on the attack transport and 2 LSTs. Kept in trim by a rigorous training program, the Marines are the Fleet's shock troops. Their commander, Lt. Col. Stanley Davis, USMC, pointed out that although the Marines are more efficient than ever with their new equipment, their traditional toughness is not legend. The Marines proved his point this morning.

dividual cases where workers, industries or communities cannot keep their footing against increased competition.

But he promised: "I do not intend to see them made victims of the national welfare. I do not intend to give them a medal and an empty grocery bag."

But this "cannot and will not be a program of permanent government paternalism," he said. Rather it will be aimed to afford time for "American initiative, American adaptability and American resiliency to assert themselves."

The President announced that the November employment in the U.S. has reached 67,349,000. Moreover he said, unemployment in November dropped below 6.8 per cent of the labor force for the first time in a year. The rate was 6.1 per cent.

Katanga Air Action

troops let the tunnel go because they "had no wish to bring the battle into the town." He added that if no advance could be made, the UN would be forced into driving through the city.

The only other gunfire here this morning—after a night punctuated by heavy mortar and machine gun fire—was the constant sniping at "three of four Europeans" at UN headquarters. They have been at it since hostilities broke out Tuesday afternoon.

The tree-lined and villa-lined streets of Elisabethville have become a battleground.

The UN which started yesterday's action to keep communications open, today blasted the edge of the city with mortar and heavy machine gun fire to stop the Katangese forces from reoccupying positions lost yesterday.

The Katangese were obviously fighting back strongly. Three times since yesterday the UN command announced it cleared the vital road to the airport, but heavy firing was continuing and there were indications that the UN was fighting a defensive battle.

Neither side has been able to give an up to date casualty figure. A local hospital reported it handled 14 dead including three European civilians and four African civilians.

TSHOMBE GOES HOME

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia, Dec. 7 (AP)—Katanga's President Tshombe arrived here in a chartered aircraft late this afternoon. He immediately went to a waiting auto and drove northward to Katanga.

Nehru Says

said India "cannot accept being almost denied use of her seas," and it was necessary to clear the waters.

Before any action in the area of Goa, 225 miles south of Bombay on the Arabian sea, India "must inevitably be ready to meet any development that might occur there," Nehru said.

In referring to Goa, Nehru apparently also included Daman and Diu, the two tiny Portuguese enclaves on the coast north of Bombay. Goa is the center of Portugal's four century old Indian empire, and the other two enclaves are dependent upon it.

CHINA ACCUSES INDIA

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (UPI) — Communist China today accused India of pursuing an "extremely dangerous" policy of "expansion by force in the Sino-Indian border areas."

The charge came in a Foreign Ministry statement on the border dispute and the publication of a "strong" protest note to India last month alleging illegal Indian intrusions into Chinese territory designed to "create new troubles."
