Norstad Asks Greater NATO Strength

MUNICH, Germany, June 17 (AP) — Gen. Lauris D. Norstad, Allied Supreme Commander in Europe, said last night only a miscalculation by the enemy could bring about another world war. The Soviet threat to West Berlin showed that there still existed a danger of international incidents which forced the West to stick to its strategy of deterrents, he said.

Norstad said conventional forces of the North Atlantic allies should be so strong that they could halt limited aggression by the enemy and give him time to ponder risks. If such strength in conventional forces were achieved then only a miscalculation by the enemy could start an all-out war, said Norstad.

He flew to the Bavarian capital yesterday for a two-day lecture tour on current military and political problems. Last night he addressed an audience of some 1,500 persons of a Christian Socialist Economics Federations.

When he arrived at Munich's Rhiem airport, Norstad, his wife and daughter were met by West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss, Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Adolf Heusinger and Bavarian State officials.

In his first lecture, Norstad also pleaded for a widely scattered belt of atomic rocket launching sites in Europe.

Police Alert As West Berlin Marks Anti-Red Revolt Day

BERLIN, June 17 (AP) — Police in both East and West Berlin were on alert today as West Berlin observed the sixth anniversary of East Germany's anti-Communist revolt. The police were alerted to prevent any demonstrations aimed at creating trouble along the border that splits Berlin.

The Communists placed several extra policemen on their side of border crossing points. In West Berlin, extra police took up posts along the border.

West Berlin police also parked a water cannon on the Western side of the Brandenburg Gate, chief entrance to East Berlin. Everything was quiet in West Berlin. Stores and factories were closed in observance of the anniversary.

Mayor Willy Brandt laid a wreath in front of a West Berlin memorial that commemorates those who died in the unsuccessful revolt.

Reds Ignore Event

In Communist East Berlin, the anniversary was virtually ignored and business went on as usual.

The only official East German notice of the anniversary came in the Communist Party's youth newspaper, Junge Welt. It denounced plans to hold a June 17 anniversary rally in front of West Berlin's city hall tonight.

The rally is to be addressed by Mayor Brandt and West German President Theodor Heuss. The rally is to be followed by a torchlight parade.

Holiday Suspends Kerala 'Liberation Movement'

TRIVANDRUM, India, June 18 (AP) — The self-styled "liberation movement" in south India's Communist-ruled state of Kerala took a holiday today. All schools and government offices were closed because of Bakrid, the Moslem holiday. Therefore there was no picketing.

Picketing, which began last Friday, is intended to force the resignation of the Communist state government. It has been only token so far, however, and had no effect on the Communist's intentions to remain in office until the next elections, which are scheduled for 1962.

Plans

The groups which are seeking to oust the government on charges of corruption and using undemocratic methods continued today to lay plans for more intensive agitation.

All factions of the opposition agreed that there can be no turning back, despite 12 deaths resulting from clashes with the police.

One agitation leader said that police fire has "only kindled more the enthusiasm of the people — rather than being intimated they are becoming more brave."

This leader was Mannathu Padmanabhan, 82-year-old leader of the school picketing movement.

Interviewed in Trivandrum, Padmanabhan said his group of a Hindu subcaste called Nair Community, plus Christians, were cooperating closely with the opposition political parties.

He said the two groups will make final plans, beginning with meetings on Sunday, for allout agitation designed to paralyze the government.

French Writer Faces Charges Of 'Offending Pope Pius XII'

MILAN, June 18 (AP) — French writer Roger Peyrefitte has been ordered to stand trial on new charges of offending the late Pope Pius XII, this time on accusations stemming directly from his book "The Keys of St. Peter."

Court officials said today the trial against Peyrefitte and his Italian publisher, the Longanesi firm of Milan, would start June 25.

Longanesi published an Italian version of Peyrefitte's book in early 1958. It also distributed the original French version.

Soon afterward—in March 1958—state police authorities ordered seizure of all copies of the book pending investigation of the charges against Peyrefitte and the publishers.

Word that a trial date had been fixed was the first public notice that the investigation had concluded.

Left Italy

A spokesman for the publishers said Peyrefitte left Milan for Paris Sunday. The spokesman said it was not known whether he would personally attend the trial.

He faces similar charges of offending Pope Pius in a Rome court. These charges were brought against him and Michele Salerno, editor of Rome's leftist afternoon daily, Paese Sera, which carried an article by Peyrefitte.

Vatican Protests

Charges against Peyrefitte and Salerno were brought after the Vatican protested to the Italian government that the article—called "Rome of the Popes"—was offensive.

Trial on the Rome charge was fixed for April 14, 1958, but the case was postponed indefinitely.

Peyrefitte, in turn, has filed a defamation suit against the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, and the Italian Catholic Action daily, Il Quotidiano, for stories they carried after the Paese Sera article was published.

How Y' Gonna Get 'Em Down To Farm Poses Problem To Czech Government

MUNICH, Germany, June 18 (AP) — Czechoslovakia's official Communist daily complains that young people are not being recruited fast enough for farm work, according to an editorial translated by Radio Free Europe.

The editorial in the Prague Rude Pravo said the party had decided that 40,000 to 45,000 were to be won over every year to agriculture. The current course of this campaign is very unsatisfactory, the newspaper was quoted as adding.

It reported good results in one district, but said that in others only 40 and 65 per cent of the young people needed had been found.
