THE STOCK MARKET

Hint Of Steel Strike Break Sends Market To High Level

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Reports of a possible break in the American steel strike sent stock market prices higher late today.

Trading volume increased on the late rally as the market climbed out of its previous irregular pattern.

Steels were the best performers in today's market, closing fractions to around $2 a share. Some selected specialists did as well.

Groups doing well were oils, motors, electronics, metals and some of the rails. Tobaccos were lower and chemicals mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 60 cents to $225.70.

Turnover was 3,280,000 shares compared with 3,490,000 yesterday.

LONDON MARKET

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Trading was at a low ebb and dullness prevailed on the Stock Exchange today.

Brokers said both speculators and investors apparently were daunted by rumors of higher British interest rates — although the pace-setting Bank of England rate held firm at 4 per cent this afternoon.

British government bonds were depressed by small-lot selling.

Small but widespread losses appeared through much of the industrial section.

Dollar stocks declined in sympathy with proceedings at the previous Wall Street session.

Gold mining shares were mainly lower. Coppers and oils were quiet with no definite trend.

CLOSING GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Grain futures prices were mostly weak today on the Board of Trade. Wheat was 3/4 cent a bushel lower to 3/4 higher at the finish.

Unfair Competition

BERGEN, Dec. 3 (AP) — "Western European shipping industries feel more and more that they are competing with the U.S. government rather than with the American shipping industry as such," the presidente of the Norwegian Shipowers' Association said today.

Aden Bunkering Hit By Strikes

ADEN, Dec. 3 (UPI) — Sporadic strikes are hitting the colony's industries and driving shipping from the bustling port, it was reported here.

Port oil deliveries for ships' bunkering were cut since workers at the British Petroleum Company's refinery walked out two weeks ago.

Up to 150 vessels were estimated to have put in to Djibouti and other alternative ports rather than risk delay in Aden through the BP strike, but both the Standard Vacuum and Caltex Companies were able to maintain the oil flow to the port.

Normally 17 ships a day call at Aden for refueling, but the daily average has now dropped to 11.
