Premier-Led Rebels Hide In Mountains

JAKARTA, May 16 (UP) — Rebel government Premier Sjafruddin Prawiranegara is leading scattered rebel forces from a mountain hideout near Bukittinggi, a high-ranking central government officer disclosed today.

Commander of the central government invasion troops Lt Col. Achmad Jani told Indonesian correspondents touring the "Liberated" areas that Sjafruddin and some followers were in hideouts on the slopes of Mount Merapi, a few miles southeast of the captured rebel capital.

He said other rebel leaders, including Achmad Hussein, Cabinet Minister Burhanuddin Harahap and Masjumi Party Chairman Mohammed Natsir were scattered in "fall-back" areas in the jungles east of Lake Singkarat which have been provisioned for guerilla warfare.

Jani said that only 11 loyalist invasion troops had been killed and 70 wounded in the Padang fighting.

Military operations in Sumatra entered the "third phase" — the phase against guerrillas, Jani quoted as saying.

Meanwhile the Jakarta military command declared the city is ready to repel any rebel air attacks.

Rebel planes from the North Celebes have attacked shipping and seaports over a vast area in East Sumatra but have not penetrated as far south as Java.

Extremists Revolt In Bolivia Collapses After Show Of Force

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 16 (AP) — A 24-hour revolt by a combination of extreme rights and Communists in eastern Bolivia had collapsed today and the rebels fled.

The government of President Hernan Siles Zuazo clamped tight military control on oil-producing Santa Cruz province last night after routing rebels there with a show of force. No battles between government troops and the rebels were reported.

Siles announced that members of the Bolivian right-wing Falange and Communists in the province capital city of Santa Cruz fled east toward the military dictatorship of Paraguay.

Fade Into Jungle

Other rebels faded into the jungles of the province, which lie 350 miles east in the lowlands below this mountain capital.

Col. Jorge Barrenechea, the rebel leader in the oil center of Camiri, 160 miles south of Santa Cruz city, also departed hastily for Paraguay, the government said.

Official said the rebels hoped to set off a nationwide uprising by extremists against Siles' democratic regime which would disrupt the June parliamentary elections.

EXPENSIVE TASTES? — Rep. Waynes Hays thinks she has. And a few hours after Zsa Zsa Gabor left New York for a Washington night club engagement he said during a debate on the forcig nad bill: "She may strain the financial resources of Dominican Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr.," who gave her an auto and a $17,000 coat.

France Halts Crisis By Importing Wine

SETE, France, May 16 (AP) — Believe it or not — France has started importing wine, importing not exporting.

The tanker Circee, flying the Moroccan flag, arrived in this Mediterranean port yesterday, carrying 5,500 hectoliters of Yugoslav wine from Rijeka.

It was the first imported under a new decree permitting France to import wines to make good a local shortage due to last year's bad grape harvest and the fact that many French vineyards have been turned over to other farm production.

'Pretty Picture' May Be Worth Thousands, Kalamazoo Man Hopes

KALAMAZOO, Mich., May 16 (AP) — Two months ago Dutch-born John Van der Kamp bid $40 for a painting at a Grand Rapids art dealer's "because I liked the face." Today he hoped to find out whether the canvas may be worth thousands of dollars. John by accident discovered two layers of paint beneath the face he liked. The Van der Kamps then consulted local X-ray technicians and arranged for photographs. He plans to check the Amsterdam Museum of Art for a verdict.
